LAWRENCE CARMEN STRIKE

Street Car Service Tied Up; Bay State Employees Allege Unfairness

Lawrence, May 27.—Street car service was practically paralyzed here today by a strike of 500 motormen, conductors, barn hands and office employes of the Bay State Railway lines. Not a Bay State company car left the barns this morning.

The strike grows out of dissatisfaction with the local management, and no question of wages is involved. The incident which finally precipitated the trouble was the discharge of Motorman Daniel J. Cahill. His reinstatement is made the first condition of the return of the car crews.

Civic and commercial organizations were today seeking to bring about speedy arbitration of the difficulty, and the more optimistic were predicting a settlement before night.

NO CARS ENTER CITY.

Crews on other lines of the Bay State system were refusing to run into Lawrence, out of sympathy with the grievances of the employes here, and halted their cars from Boston, Andover, Lawrence or Lowell at the Lawrence line. Bewildered passengers were carried the rest of the way into the city in jitney buses, of which there are a great number in commission. No disorder has featured the strike so far.

The cars of the Canobie Lake line, which is not affected, were still run-

Get Ready for Second Income Tax Payment

Mr. or Mrs. Income Tax Payer, the second instalment of your income tax is due on or before June 15. Collector of Internal Revenue John F. Malley is already making preparations for its collection by the quickest and least painful method.

Bills will be sent out within ten days of June 15, announcing the time limit, and the amount owed by the recipient. Those who wish to anticipate this and send in their payments in advance may do so by reckoning from their first quarterly payment, and identifying themselves by the "stencil number" on their cancelled checks, as well as by name.

The stencil number is usually a high one, such as 400,058, and can readily be distinguished from the other numbers on the returned checks received by tax payers. Those who wait for the bills to reach them will be informed in detail how much they owe, and what proportion in interest, in case they did not make the first quarterly payment in full.

KOLCHAK FALLS BACK BEFORE BOLSHEVISTS

Paris, May 27.—Admiral Kolchak's armies are reported retiring before the Bolshevists, who have taken Kazan and also are pushing ahead in the direction of Ufa on the trans-Siberian railway.

In the north, however, the Bolshevists are failing back before the Finns and Russian volunteers who are advancing toward Petrograd.

The town of Peterhof, twenty miles from Petrograd, is reported taken with the aid of the British fleet operating in the Gulf of Finland. Many Bolshevists are reported to have been captured in that sector together with large numbers of guns.

Pskoff, an important railway junction about 175 miles southwest of Petrograd, also is reported about to fall.

Recognition of the Kolchak government has not yet been decided, although the matter is under consideration by the allies.

HARVARD STUDENT DROWNS

Body of Ralph K. Stretch Found in Tank at the Cambridge Y. M. C. A.

The body of Ralph K. Stretch, a Harvard student, whose home was at No. 234 Hovey avenue, South Bend, Ind., was found today at the bottom of the swimming pool in the Cambridge Y. M. C. A.

The cause of death could not be learned, as Medical Examiner Dow, who examined the body, reserved his decision.

Carl S. Rider of No. 17 Vinal avenue, Somerville, with other young men, was swimming about the pool, when the body was seen lying on the bottom under water. Stretch was twenty years old and had rooms at No. 64 Thayer Hall, Harvard.

TO BUILD 35 WAR CRAFT AT SQUANTUM PLANT

That the Navy Department will continue the plant at Squantum and calls for construction of thirty-five destroyers there within the next year, was the statement today of Captain Homer H. Stanford, departmental engineer detailed to superintend the building of a dry dock in Boston. Captain Stanford argued before the legislative Committee on Waterways and Terminals for "legalizing" the so-called Victory Bridge, built on land owned by the State, and the only direct approach to the plant. The bridge was put up without a license. John N. Cole, chairman of the committee, also favored a bill making the bridge permanent, and there was no opposition.

Says in Paris Speech He's Glad That Presidency Is Behind Him

Paris, May 27.—The Irish-American delegates who came here to get the peace conference to recognize Ireland as a republic were today informed by Secretary of State Lansing that any further efforts in their behalf would be futile, therefore unwise. Mr. Lansing, in his reply to the representations of the Irish-Americans, said that certain utterances made while they were visiting Ireland had given deep offence to the British authorities.

Paris, May 27.—President Wilson, in an address here last night, in which he touched briefly upon the League of Nations and the opposition he had encountered in the United States to some of his plans, urged all Americans to unite and "Set an example" to the people of other nations.

The President was the principal speaker at a dinner given in honor of President-elect Penoa of Brazil. In the course of his remarks, he let drop a statement that was accepted by some as an announcement that he would not again be a candidate for the presidency, when he said that it was delightful for him to know that "my presidency is not ahead of

Official Flying Time of the NC-4

The NC-4 left Rockaway Beach, Long Island, on May 8, but started from Trepassey in the actual flight across the Atlantic at 8:07 p. m. New York time, May 16, arriving at the Azores the following day. Her official flying time is as follows:

Rockaway Beach to Halifax (930 miles), 7 hours, 47 minutes.

Halifax to Trepassey (400 miles), 5 hours, 59 minutes.

Trepassey to Horta, Azores (1,200 miles), 15 hours, 18 minutes.

Horta to Ponta Delgada (150 miles), 1 hour, 44 minutes.

By reaching Lisbon before 4 o'clock this afternoon, New York time, the NC would have crossed the Atlantic in less than 27 hours actual flying time. The Mauretania made the best record of any steamer when she crossed in 4 days, 17 hours, 6 minutes, on February 20, 1909.

PROGRESSIVES BEATEN IN G.O.P. CONFERENCE

By International News Service.

Washington, May 27.—By a sweeping majority, Republican Senators, assembled in an open conference today, refused to accept the warning of Senator Borah, Progressive Republican of Idaho, that the choice of Senator Penrose, Old Guard Republican of Pennsylvania, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, meant the "endorsement of a system of taxation that would do more to bring Bolshevism into the United States and destroy American institutions than anything else."

By a vote of 34 to 8 Borah's motion to strike out the name of Senator Penrose as head of the finance committee was defeated, after several other Republican Senators had expressed themselves as being in utter disagreement with Borah's views.

Senator Penrose was among the absentees.

As Borah disclaimed any intention of carrying his fight against Penrose to the floor of the Senate, the subsequent adoption by the conference without a rollcall of the committee "slate" made by the Senate Republican committee on committees, was regarded as tantamount to its acceptance in the Senate tomorrow. Senator Warren, "Old Guard" Senator of Wyoming, against whom Borah also waged opposition, will be chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee, just as Penrose will head the Senate Finance Committee, it was predicted.

The eight Senators voting for the striking out of the name of Senator Penrose as chairman of the finance committee were: Borah, Idaho; Lenroot, Wisconsin; McCormick, Illinois; McNary, Oregon; Capper, Kansas; Cummins, Iowa; Johnson, California and Kenyon, Iowa.

PORTUGUESE CROWD SHORES TO WELCOME SEAPLANE

The U. S. seaplane NC-4 is nearing Europe on the last leg of its air-splitting dash for the trans-Atlantic flight pennant.

Hurtling through the air at the rate of ninety-three land miles an hour—more than a mile and one-half per minute—the "Nancy" passed station nine, on the route from the Azores to Lisbon, Portugal, at 12:18 this noon, Boston time.

There are fourteen stations along the route of 786 miles. Station nine is 450 miles out from the Azores.

Lisbon heard the news of the favorable progress of the airplane, and made early preparations to give Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read, and his intrepid crew, a proper reception.

A cable from Lisbon said that, when reports of the flight were received from the Azores and from route stations, crowds began gathering, not only along the Lisbon waterfront, but also along the Portuguese coast west of Lisbon.

Watchers stationed themselves on Estoril Hill and at Colares on the seacoast, eager for the first glimpse of the American seaplane.

The progress of the NC-4 over the first eight of the fourteen stations marked by American destroyers was as follows: Start from Ponta Delgada, 8:18 a. m., Boston time; passed Station 1, 7:12; Station 2, 7:30 a. m.; Station

Justice for Jews in New States, Wilson Assures

By International News Service.

Washington, May 27.—President Wilson has assured the Jews of America that there will be no religious discrimination in the new States created by the peace treaty. This assurance was telegraphed today to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, secretary to the President Tumulty, following cabled advices from Paris.

"The President requests me to assure you," Tumulty's telegram read, "that safeguards against religious discrimination, which the President says he has so much at heart, will be embodied in the agreement by which the new States will be set up."

PLANT ELEVATOR DROPS, HURTING TWO WOMEN

Mrs. Hattie Northway, forty-nine, of No. 72 Fisher avenue, Jamaica Plain, and Miss Margaret McManus, twenty-one, of No. 179 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, were injured at noon today when the elevator in which they were riding, in the Thoman Cl Plant shoe factory, dropped one story. The breaking of a cable let the car from the street floor into the basement. Mrs. Northway, who was the operator of the elevator, was taken to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital with a compound fracture of the left leg. Miss McManus was found to have sustained injuries to her back, and is at the same hospital.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS AFTER STREET FIGHT

Joseph H. Hoyle, twenty-eight, is at City Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. Hoyle, who lives at No. 20 Merrill street, Dorchester, was found unconscious on the lawn at No. 15 Fenlor street at a late hour last night by Raymond H. Dricks of No. 6 Fenlor street and Dorothy G. Brown of No. 20 Fenlor street, who were passing. The police were notified. According to the police Hoyle was in a fight earlier in the evening with Edward J. Whelan at the corner of Washington street and Columbia road. Whelan is under arrest.

PRAISES DANISH CREW FOR BRAVE RESCUE WORK

By EARL C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, May 27.—Describing his experiences today aboard the train on which he is traveling to London, Harry G. Hawker said that until his water filter became choked he was certain he would reach Ireland without mishap on his recent flight over the Atlantic.

"We were about 500 miles out," he said. "The weather was very bad and the clouds very high. Several times we tried to clear the filter by making sharp downward glides, but always without success, and this meant losing altitude at each attempt. When we climbed again the water boiled badly.

"Finally, when we were twelve and one-half hours from Newfoundland we came to clouds about 15,000 feet high and very black—almost impossible to fly through. Each time we tried to climb above them we boiled badly so I decided to go beneath them. Coming down to about 4,000 feet we found it blacker than ever.

"Eventually I got to 10,000 above the water before we could see to fly. We started on our course again with the sun just getting up, but could not keep the temperature below boiling. Then we decided to play for safety.

"We began zigzagging back and forth hoping to catch sight of some vessel. The wind was blowing from the northeast at half a gale. At last I sighted a ship close to us on our port bow. We were both in the fog with clouds low, and were almost on top of the ship before we saw her.

"We flew alongside the vessel at an altitude of 400 feet, fired three distinct signals and began flying back and forth across her path.

"Finally some of her crew came on deck and signaled that they understood us. We went on ahead about two miles, and landed in front of her, making a good landing in spite of rough water.

RESCUE WAS DIFFICULT.

"We pulled down our own little boat and made ready to take to her in case the biplane began sinking. The waves were running twelve feet high and breaking over both of us but our life-saving suits kept us dry.

"The Mary drew up to within 200 yards of us and for an hour and a half watched her crew, trying to put over a lifeboat. When they finally got her launched they had difficulty making their way in, but after a fight with the waves reached the plane and took us off.

"We were without boots or caps when we got into the lifeboat and Grieve was without his coat. We also lost a lot of valuable instruments and some mail we were carrying to England from Newfoundland."

Hawker's ride toward London today was a triumphal procession.

WELCOMED AS HEROES.

The two men tried to make their way unnoticed to the station restaurant to get breakfast, but were surrounded and carried through the station on the shoulders of the crowd, while thousands cheered.

Later in the morning they received ovations from smaller throngs gathered at all the stations in Scotland, as they approached the English border. Upon their arrival at the Mariyebone station here tonight they will be met by an official reception committee and escorted by members of the Royal Aero Club and Australian soldiers to the aero clubhouse. The police have made arrangements to handle big crowds along the two-mile route the two aviators will travel.

Among the congratulations received at Hawker's home were notes from the King and Queen; Sir Joseph Cook, Premier Hughes of Australia and Admirals Benson and Knapp.

DELAYED DEPENDENCY CHECKS ORDERED PAID

Washington, May 27.—By order of President Wilson, payments of allotments and current allotments to soldiers and sailors and dependents of Civil War veterans will be made by the War Risk and Insurance Bureau without waiting for the formal signing of the urgent deficiency bill.

Authority to send the checks forward "without a moment's delay" was cabled to Secretary Glass by President Wilson after the President had been informed that the $15,000,000 deficiency measure had been passed by congress. The bill is on its way to Paris for signature.

301ST SIGNAL MEN GLAD TO BE HOME AGAIN

The boys have just landed at Commonwealth Pier from the U. S. battleship North Carolina, which brought them from France. They are members of the 301st Field Signal Battalion, which trained at Camp Devens. They all saw plenty of service at the front.

Old-Fashioned Girls, Here's a Chance for Matrimony

Here's a chance for the "good old-fashioned girl" to get married and pos-dered titles need apply. Just a plain, old-fashioned, honest-to-goodness girl, not too pretty, but who can pass in a crowd. For such a girl there is a matrimonial prize awaiting down in Brockton.

He is J. H. Clayton, and he wants a wife. He has written to Ona American about it and asked assistance. The wife that he wants can be anywhere between "eighteen and twenty-five years old"—and if she cannot cook he can teach her.

Clayton is an American, according to his statement, twenty-nine years old and can pass in a crowd in regards to looks. He says that he is a chauffeur by occupation and that he is a total abstainer.

A welcome only surpassed by that given the Yankee Division was accorded today to the returning troops aboard the U. S. B. battleship North Carolina, among whom were the men of the 301st Field SignalBattalion, formerly of the 76th, New England's draft division which trained at Camp Devens.

The battalion was the biggest unit among the seventy-two officers and 1,822 men aboard the North Carolina, and from Boston and all over New England mothers, sweethearts and wives had gathered to give them a royal welcome home.

As the big warship swung around in the stream and in toward Commonwealth Pier, shortly before 11 o'clock, the soldiers lining the rail caught sight of the figure of a middle-aged "Y" worker on the dock, and a shout went up, "It's Dad of old Hut 23," which caused the curious crowds to wonder and tears to cloud for a moment the eyes of the Y. M. C. A. secretary.

For "Dad" is Louis G. Colson to his friends outside the army, the good genius of Hut 23 at Devens, and the boys of the 76th were his "boys."

MAJOR PANNING IN COMMAND.

Major John J. Panning of Boston was in command of the 301st Field Signal Battalion, and the ranking officer aboard the ship. He said he did not know whether his was the last detachment of the New England draft division to get home, as the division had been so thoroughly split up that only Washington knew where its various parts were scattered.

Beside the signal battalion aboard were about forty casuals of the Yankee Division, many of them replacements from the Middle West, but several of them Boston boys just released from hospitals. Among these latter were James Joy of the 101st Infantry, Springfield; E. M. Burns, Grove Hall street, Dorchester, 101st Infantry; Israel Kolokoff, Roxbury; Roy G. Lawrence and Robert Burns, 104th Infantry, Holyoke.

SAW PLENTY OF ACTION.

The 301st Field Signal Battalion went to France from Quebec July 11, 1918, landed in France and went to training camp at Lagree, and from there was assigned to the 6th Army Corps. The troops were sent into the Marbache sector, where they saw plenty of action from late in September until armistice day, when they had almost completed plans for their share in an attack on Metz.

Beside the New Englanders aboard the battleship were: Clothing and Bath Section, 6th Corps; Provisional Supply Co., 6th Corps; 21 men Munitions Detachment, 6th Corps; Detachments 1 and 2, 314th Field Artillery, 4 officers and 117 men; Detachments of 313th Field Artillery, 2 officers and 117 men; Casual Co. No. 856, 2 officers and seven men; Casual Co. No. 855, 2 officers and 192 men; other casuals and war workers.

Got Away to Good Start at 6:18 A. M., With Fine Weather to Favor Flight

By JACK VEIOCK
Staff Correspondent International News Service.

Ponta Delgada, May 27.—Carrying America's hope for success in the trans-Atlantic flight, the seaplane NC-4 winged away from here at 6:18 a. m. New York time today on the last leg of the trip across the ocean.

Lieutenant-Commander Read said before the start that he expected to reach Lisbon, Portugal, before 4 o'clock this afternoon, New York time. The distance from Ponta Delgada to Lisbon is approximately 800 nautical miles.

If the NC-4 flies to Portugal without mishap she will continue on to Plymouth, England.

A big crowd saw the take-off. The weather was almost perfect. The sun glinted on the shiny polished surface of the seaplane's upper wings as she wheeled about in the harbor in preliminary tests, and then, gathering speed, dashed off and rode into the air like a great bird.

The shore crowds cheered, the sailors sent up a series of shouts and whistles tooted an accompaniment.

The NC-4 carried exactly the same crew which made the flight to the Azores from Trepassey.

The first report of the seapiane's progress came about an hour after she left here.

She passed Station No. 1 at 7:13 a. m., New York time, and sent the following message to Admiral Jackson:

"We seem to be on our way. Many thanks for your hospitality."

The crew boarded the NC-4 an hour before sunrise, taking food supplies aboard and making final preparations for the flight. The weather experts announced the winds were mostly northwest all along the course from the Azores to Portugal.

Trouble with the seaplane's port engine slightly delayed the start this morning.

Lieutenant-Commander Read said he hoped to resume the flight to Plymouth tomorrow, though his air voyage officially ends at Lisbon.

Thirteen destroyers lined the course from here to Lisbon.

Daniels Commends Hawker's Pluck in Cable to Him

Washington, May 27.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels has cabled Harry G. Hawker and Mackenzie Greteve, the Australian aviators, who were believed to have perished in their attempt to fly across the Atlantic as follows:

"The American aviators, co-pioneers in the conquest of the air, send greetings and warm commendation of the pluck and endurance of their associates. The spirit of high adventure born of resolve to open all elements to the dominion of man, ennobles our manhood."

Shrieking Sirens at Lisbon Signal Read's Start From Azores

By International News Service.

Lisbon, May 27. — A shrieking of sirens led by the United States cruiser Rochester announced shortly before noon that Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Read had left Ponta del Gada in the American naval seaplane NC-4 on the 800-mile leg of his trans-Atlantic air journey from the Azores to Lisbon.

Intense excitement followed, for the Portuguese had been looking forward for many days to this historic event. Many bets had been laid on the length of time it would require to make the flight and when the jump off would take place at Ponta del Gada.

The city was in gala attire with American flags flying from many of the buildings.

Along the harbor front crowds began to gather before the last wail of the sirens died away. It was planned to blow a second blast one hour before the intrepid American naval flyer was due to land in the harbor, and this was to be the signal for the president of the republic to be ready to bestow a medal upon Lieutenant-Commander Read.

Lisbon feels highly honored that the United States Navy chose this city as one of the stopping places on the long seaplane flight from Newfoundland to England. Lieutenant-Commander Read plans to rest here and await favorable weather before starting on the last leg of his long flight to Plymouth, England. He will be taken on board the cruiser Rochester immediately following his arrival, but will leave at the earliest opportunity. Never in history will a more tumultuous welcome be tendered an American in Lisbon.

ning, but this line is utterly unable to relieve conditions, as it is used by comparatively few workingmen or business men on their way to the office or the shop.

MANAGEMENT ATTACKED.

A general strike committee has been appointed, consisting of George W. Mingins, John Leonard and John Cassidy. This committee today issued a statement attacking the administration of Superintendent John M. Hayes, asserting that he is too severe toward employes guilty of minor offenses. The entire question of administration of local lines may be taken up before the employes will consent to return to work.

The street car company officials, on the other hand, say the strike is not sanctioned by the international officers of the Street Car Workers' Union, and that local union officers advised against it today. The union men predict sympathy strikes in Lowell and Haverhill unless the company quickly comes to terms.

HARVARD CRIMSON NOT AFRAID OF NEW DAILY

The threat that a new Harvard daily will be established next year to compete with the Crimson is received by the editors of the latter organ with equanimity. The fact that such a project was being considered was revealed through the Harvard Magazine, the youngest of the college's literary publications. The magazine charges a number of failings to the Crimson, and says that certain professors refuse to allow their matter to be published in its columns on account of poor cutting and careless proofreading. The Crimson editorially today hurls the charges back in the faces of its "calumniators."

IF YOU are a manufacturer and have been holding back on alterations and improvements DON'T DELAY any longer. YOU need, the CITY, the STATE, the ENTIRE COUNTRY needs the business stimulation and prosperity that building and improvements will bring.

CORRECT that loss and inefficiency which is the result of crowded, stuffy work rooms. Arrange for better shop or factory conditions. Lay new floors, put up new partitions, new doors, build new racks, new cases or counters.

DON'T stop improvements with the shop. Your offices probably need them, too. See that they are suitable for your executives—that they are representative of business efficiency. Remember that one-third of YOUR time and your employes' is spent in the office and in the factory.

IF YOU are a Retail Merchant or Wholesaler go out into your shipping room today; see if the merchandise bins and racks are in shape to protect valuable stock. If they aren't BUILD THEM OVER—AND BUILD THEM NOW. Are the partitions O.K.? Is the floor in condition to stand heavy trucking? You'll find many things that need remodeling—AND NEED IT NOW!

YOUR showrooms and offices are apt to need attention, too. Tear down the old warped partitions, take out the rattly old doors—put in NEW ones and see how much better everything looks—how much pleasanter the working quarters are.

NEW ENGLAND QUOTA SOARS TOWARD TOP IN SALVATION ARMY FUND

BOSTON'S TOTAL IS $320,088

City Has to Raise $79,912 Before Thursday Night; Cole Urges Steady Effort

With a long pull, and a strong pull, and a pull all together, Boston and the rest of New England will go over the top in the Salvation Army drive. This was the statement of officials today, following announcements of the latest returns. Concerted effort is still necessary, however, according to Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole and his assistants.

Of the $400,000 quota set for Boston, the city had raised $320,088 today. This leaves only $79,912 to be subscribed by midnight Thursday, the time limit of the campaign. These figures were given out by Alfred L. Aiken, president of the National Shawmut Bank and treasurer of the drive. Receipts reported overnight totalled $29,728.

Latest reports of the Elks show collection of $6,283, bringing their total reported to date to about $50,000. Certain committees are still to be heard from, it was said. Street activities by other workers, including the sale of carnations, brought in $7,519.

Especially fine has been the record of the automobile industry. Since the drive opened its organization Chairman John H. Johnson has reported $10,125. The accessories and tire divisions have not yet made known the amounts of their receipts.

Another committee to be heard from is one headed by Miss Dorothy Forbes, which solicited contributions throughout the Back Bay.

OVER $2,000,000 RAISED.

New England, ouside of Boston, has alredy contributed over $2,000,000 toward its quota of $3,000,000.

Quincy, with a $10,000 quota, has gone over the top; Fitchburg, with a quota of $8,000, reports $12,000 collected; South Norwalk, Ct., seeking $5,400, secured $7,100. Other Connecticut cities and towns did equally well. Danbury, with a quota of $5,150, went over the top for $5,600; Stamford three days ago had secured $16,000; Waterbury, seeking $20,000, had $26,463 on Saturday night; Bridgeport the same night had $114,000 towards her quota of $120,000.

Springfield made a wonderful showing. With a quota of $116,000 she had secured $130,000 Saturday night. Holyoke, proportionately had done even more, giving $15,000, with a quota of only $6,000.

Rhode Island established a record. Pawtucket went over the top by 300 per cent., contributing $18,000. Providence fell short, giving only $85,000 when she should have given $135,000.

Concord, N. H., last Friday, had given $7,200. Her quota is $10,000. Portsmouth, N. H., went way over the top, giving $12,000, when her quota called for but $6,300.

Fall River and New Bedford have each reported $20,000; Malden $17,000, quota $31,000; Beverly $7,000, quota $6,000.

WEAK IN WORCESTER.

The places the weakest and in danger of failing are Worcester, Lynn and Manchester, N. H. They reported as follows: Worcester $32,000, quota $53,000; Lynn $30,000, quota $112,000, and Manchester $19,500, quota $46,000.

Practically all of these cities and towns are still receiving contributions.

Further analysis of the reports shows that never in Boston's or in New England's history has a drive been so popular with the masses. Individual contributions break all records. Never were there so many. It was the man of means who did not give proportionately with what he has given in past drives. Some, indeed, did not give anything.

"The drive," said General Cole today, "can be put over the top now. I am confident of this. But it can be done only by united effort. And I appeal to all citizens, those of Boston and of all other communities of New England, to do their utmost between now and Thursday midnight."

INTRUDER SCARED AWAY BY WALTHAM WOMAN

Awakened by a noise at a window early today, Mrs. Walter Wigmore of No. 945 Main street, Waltham, saw a man removing the screen. He flashed a light in her face, then in alarm, disappeared. Mrs. Wigmore notified the police.

BOSTON'S PERFECT MAN, George A. Saxton, soon to enter course at West Point.

The perfect man has been found at last—perfect in every detail mentally and physically. He is 100 per cent. proof, according to the army examining board, and his name is George A. Saxton, Jr., recently appointed to West Point by Congressman Gallivan. He reports there for the beginning of his four years' training course on June 13.

Young Saxton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Saxton of No. 6 Sargent street, Dorchester. He is a Harvard freshman, eighteen years old; height 6 feet 1½ inches, and weight 210 pounds.

He entered Harvard last September, and in October enlisted in the Marine Officers' Training School at the college. He received his discharge with the rank of corporal on the signing of the armistice, one month after enlistment.

The father of the young man is a retired lieutenant of the Boston police department, having been inspector of carriages until placed on the retired list. The young Adonis is visiting in Nova Scotia for a week previous to reporting at West Point.

SKEFFINGTON TO INVESTIGATE PLANT STRIKE

Official Announcement Made at Meeting of Shoeworkers in Tremont Hall

Henry J. Skeffington, former United States Commissioner of Immigration, has been appointed by the War Labor Board to investigate the strike at the Thomas G. Plant shoe factory, it was announced today.

This announcement was made to the strikers at a meeting in Tremont Hall by Business Agent William Watson of the United Shoe Workers of America. Mr. Watson stated that a telegram to this effect had been received by Stephen A. Walsh, secretary-treasurer of the association.

The strike leaders maintain that there are at present 3,500 workers on strike. They also assert that the girl stitchers, the only employes left in the factory, are coming out gradually.

Nathan Slesinger of Bickford street, Jamaica Plain, one of the strikers, was fined $5 in the Roxbury court today on the charge of obstructing the passageway. He appealed. Strike leaders claim that the man was standing in his own doorway when arrested.

TWO BOSTON SOLDIERS HONORED AT STATE HOUSE

Private Matthew J. Boyle of A Company, 102d Machine Gun Battalion, 26th Division, an East Boston lad wounded at Seicheprey and at the second battle of the Marne, was presented to the House of Representatives today by Speaker Warner. Also Harry Steele, who was in the All-America Division, and wounded in the Argonne. The House members arose and applauded. The lads saluted. Boyle was escorted by Representative Niland. Steele is the son of Assistant Doorkeeper Frank Steele, who has been on the sergeant-at-arm's staff forty years.

YOUTHFUL DANCERS IN MAY FESTIVAL

Sixty dancing pupils of Miss Eileen G. Colleary of No. 300 Hyde Park avenue, Forest Hills, will take part in a May festival tomorrow night in the Stoughton Town Hall. There will be a program of solo and ensemble dances by pupils of varying ages, followed by general dancing and refreshments. Miss Grace Hartnett, a solo dancer of exceptional grace and talent, will appear; also Miss Margaret Nugent in the "Spring Song," and six-year-old Eva Ippolito, who as a Kewpie will lead the junior class. Similar entertainments were recently given by Miss Colleary's pupils in Hyde Park and Lynn.

5 BOYS ESCAPE FROM CELLS IN ROXBURY

Three of Four Doors Between Them and Liberty Reported Opened

Five boy prisoners, the oldest seventeen, escaped from their cells in the Roxbury Courthouse yesterday afternoon while awaiting arraignment on various grave charges and have not been seen since. It is said that three of four doors between them and liberty were unlocked and that a severe investigation is on. The story of their escape did not become known until today.

The boys were not missed for a long time after they had left their cells, but they were seen by civilians coming down over the rear wall of the court house yard, and losing themselves in the traffic of Dudley street.

While police and court officials are maintaining silence in the hope of recapturing the youthful gangsters, it is understood that the cell doors, the iron door in the corridor beyond, and the door of the enclosed courtyard were open, only the door leading into the yard being locked. There is a large transom over the door leading into the yard, and the thick glass had been smashed by the jail-breakers on their way to freedom.

The boys, for whom a general alarm has been sent out, are:

Philip Sakovitz, seventeen, No. 34 Oneida street; John Gordon, seventeen, No. 99 Mt. Crescent avenue; Fred Fisher, fourteen, No. 2 Milford street, and Herbert T. Crowley, seventeen, No. 6 Asylum street, all four charged with breaking and entering; and Joseph Millett, fifteen, on parole from Lyman School, and charged with violation of his parole.

All five are known as unusually adept in lawlessness, despite their years. Sakovitz, Gordon, Fisher and Crowley were arrested at the point of guns by Sergeant Campbell and a squad of officers early yesterday, as they were looting the haberdashery store of George Hirst at No. 250 Huntington avenue. The boys showed signs of fight, but were overawed by the revolvers.

It is said that some members of this quartet are wanted in other courts for breaks and similar mischief.

Despite the secrecy maintained at the courthouse, there is some wrangling as to responsibility for the escape, one of the biggest jail deliveries in years.

Just before the daring dash for liberty must have taken place one of the five boys tramped up the stairs toward the courtroom cage, apparently to see if the judge were almost ready to try their cases. The authorities now agree that he was reconnoitring to see if all were favorable to the getaway of himself and his companions.

Descriptions of the fugitives have been sent broadcast, and the police are determined to have them by night.

CAMBRIDGE POLICE MUST GIVE AUTO DATA

In view of rumors in circulation in connection with thefts of automobiles in Cambridge, Chief of Police John J. McBride of Cambridge has issued an order to the four captains in charge of Cambridge police stations directing that the policemen at each station submit to his office not later than Wednesday information as to whether they own an automobile.

If they do they are asked to give information as to license, body, motor and factory numbers, make, year of model, whether rebuilt, and by whom; when, where and from whom purchased.

If they have participated in one or more transactions in the past three years they must submit a complete history of each transaction.

EAST BOSTON LEGION PLANS FOR MAY 30

The registration committee of the Lieutenant Lawrence J. Flaherty Post, American Legion, of East Boston, is planning a big turnout of former soldiers, sailors and marines on Memorial Day, and to register all the "youngest veterans," has opened headquarters in the old police headquarters. The next meeting will be Thursday evening in old Armory Hall, on Maverick street, when Memorial Day plans will be made. Frank M. McGowan, John Gleason and Anthony Indrizano compose the registration committee which meets Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays between 8 and 10 p. m.

CUT NEW SHIPS OUT OF NAVY EXPENSE BILL

Washington, May 27.—The naval appropriation bill, with the provision authorizing new construction and all other legislative sections struck out, will be reported out by the House Naval Affairs Committee in time for consideration in the House on Monday, June 9. Hearings will be started immediately.

AUTOMATIC ALARM FOR RICHMOND STREET FIRE

A fire doing $50 damage occurred early today when cotton ignited from sparks caused by a picking machine in the bedding house of the John Holman Co. at No. 134 Richmond street. The building is a six-story brick structure owned by the Thorndike estate. The alarm was given by the automatic apparatus attached to cotton houses and the fire was extinguished in a few minutes.

CIRCUS HANDS IDENTIFY BODY FOUND ON TRACKS

Employes of the Sells-Floto Circus identified the body found on the railroad tracks between Winchester and West Medford as H. Huber, one of their fellow-workers. Huber was found dead on Sunday night after the circus trains had passed. No theory was advanced as to how Huber met his death.

Women's Eden Styles Have No Terrors for Bugs Baer

"Bugs" Baer, whose humorous column, "Two and Three—Putting the Next One Over," is a daily feature of the sporting pages of the American, was so impressed by news items from Mexico and New York of a controversial nature affecting both men's and women's dress that he wrote the following:

By "BUGS" BAER.

New York, May 27.—There is a rumor that the Prince of Wales is going to aim his royal insteps in our direction this Summer. The first question the reporters will toss at the Prince is "What do you think of our American women?"

If the reporters don't ask him the women will. As this will be the Prince's first hop to the land of high rents and equality, his first eyeful of the Statue of Liberty may give the lad a wrong impression of our shriller sex.

In the first place, the Bronze Lady doesn't wear high heels, has never been known to wiggle her shoulders like a Airedale zig-zagging through the flea zone, has bronze-colored hair without having to resort to henna—and wears clothes. The Statuess doesn't carry that torch to light her heliotrope-perfumed cigarettes, and doesn't wear a tight skirt that makes her look like a partly bandaged mummy of the Rameses tribe.

This year's fashions in women's clothes will enable the Prince to see more women than clothes. The Spring styles are "flu" and pneumonia at nine dollars a yard, but a woman would rather be sick and stylish than out of fashion and healthy.

Looking backward, as most men do, we remember the girl of a decade ago as a "flapper" who picked out a dress material to match her complexion. She was satisfied if the color of the outfit harmonized with her face. But, sweet cookies, now a dress has to match her face, her neck her chest and most of her back.

A 1919 costume consists mainly of hand-tailored talcum powder. The upper part of an evening gown is generally a few threads of lattice work, worn too low to be a veil and too high to be a pair of shoelaces.

CLOTHES AND EVE.

A well-known pastor warns us that if the present fashions continue it will not be long before the ladies will make hee look as overdressed as a boarding house hatrack with all the boarders home. That is, the well-known pastor thinks it is a warning. You remember that the farmers who were warned by Paul Revere didn't take it "on the loop." They stayed and saw it out.

Americans are just as brave today as they were then, and it's going to be a tough job to frighten two million men just back from the war. The pastor chirps that clothes are being eliminated so quickly that pretty soon a walking costume will consist mostly of walking. We can't see what he's kicking abou'

Down in Mexico, the Mayor of Morelia was forced to make a law compelling all men to wear trousers when promenading along the mud boulevards of Morelia, the fairest of all municipal jewels in the Mexican diadem of cities. Senor Idalecio Contreras is the Mayor's name, and while conceding that, pants or no pants, a Mexicano is a gentleman, he decrees that no sartorial dwelling is complete without the foundations.

POTENTIAL GARDEN OF EDEN.

So it seems that we are really dwelling in a potential Garden of Eden, where all the Eves are in New York and all the Adams in Morelia. May the distance never grow less. Why a Mexican gentleman should shed his trousers is a mystery, but no doubt the "Mexes" figure that having shed their baggy-kneed cocoons they will flutter forth as two-legged butterflies. Another view of a doubtful situation is that, owing to a bandit-depleted city treasury, the streets of Morelia lack even the paving that is popularly supposed to line the avenues of Sheol.

Having been warned by the well-known pastor and heartened by the Senor Idalecio Contreras' swift parliamentary action, we may except our own Mayor to place New York on a clothing ration similar to O. D. issues in the United States Army.

Two daily inspections at 7 a. m. and 10 p. m., by experienced campaigners would insure that all the flappers and "gents" were wearing the regulation marching outfit in the orthodox military manner as described in "Par. 745, Section 92, Volume 11, Cabaret Officers' Field Manual, U. S. A. Long May She Wave."

Under a borough-supervised clothing system, it would be impossible for Mayor Hylan to keep tabs on gentlemen citizens of the trousers-wearing class and to insure against any violations of the barrack of field O. D. uniforms.

But with the ladies, the clothes police would have their quota of troubles oversubscribed. Telling a woman what she is going to wear is like putting up Go-Go and Stop-Stop signals for a streetful of Japanese waltzing mice. Fifty years ago a woman wore everything. Now she wears something this side of nothing.

Next year she may go back again to hoopskirts, mutton chop sleeves and rubber boots. The fashion scale bobs up and down like a farmer's Adam's apple.

It's difficult to strike an average in women's wear. It used to be over. Now it's mostly under.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY FOR LEXINGTON COUPLE

Lexington, May 27.—Mr. and Mrs. John Noyes Morse, who have lived in Lexington for last half a century, are today celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, with an informal reception at their home here at No. 11 Hancock avenue. Mr. Morse is quartermaster of the George G. Meade Post, No. 119, G. A. R., of which he was a former president, and Mrs. Morse is patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 97. They have four daughters.

WATCH AND WARD MAN HELD FOR GUN PLAY

Revolver Shot From Hand by Lynn Policeman After Sensational Fight

Louis Pariseau, special police officer of Lynn and special agent of the Watch and Ward Society, was held in $3,000 for a hearing tomorrow by Judge O'Brien in Lynn Court today. He is charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, assault with intent to kill and assaulting a police officer.

Pariseau's arrest, according to the police, was accomplished in a most sensational manner by Patrolman Andrew Sherry, after Pariseau had terrorized a section of Blossom street, Lynn. Until the officer, with a shot from his own revolver, knocked Pariseau's 38-calibre automatic from his hand, the latter had held at bay a crowd of nearly 100 infuriated men.

WOMEN RESENT REMARK.

Pariseau figured in a Watch and Ward raid last Saturday night in Malden, being one of the raiding party. He told the police his official connection with the anti-vice society was that of a "raiding special agent."

Alone but apparently on business bent, Pariseau appeared in Blossom street last evening. It is alleged that his first brush with trouble was when he tried to force Miss Lena Aminvill into a dark alleyway at the point of a revolver.

It is also claimed that he made objectionable remarks to some young women sitting in the window of the home of Ernest Pleasant, No. 609 Blossom street. The women screamed. Pleasant hearing of the matter, rushed from his home in pursuit of Pariseau. It is alleged that when asked for explanations by Pleasant, Pariseau repeated the language he had used to the women. The two men grappled, and a second later were rolling over in the street. In the struggle a 38-calibre automatic fell from Pariseau's pockets. Regaining his feet, Pariseau picked up the pistol and began firing. He is said to have fired six shots in all.

HELD OFF CROWD OF 100.

Attracted by the melee Jacob Schaeffer of No. 121 Blossom street ran to the scene. Some of Pariseau's shots passed over his head, the police say.

Flourishing the pistol Pariseau held off a crowd of nearly 100 men, and sought refuge in a Blossom street house. Patrolman Sherry went to the house and demanded that Pariseau surrender. It is alleged that by way of reply Pariseau shoved the pistol through a crack in the door and pointed it at the officer. Sherry drew his revolver, and taking careful aim shot the automatic from the Watch and Ward man's hand and placed him under arrest.

Pariseau's pistol hand was slightly burned by powder and slightly bruised.

NAVY YARD EMPLOYES ACCUSED IN ROBBERY

Joseph Messina of No. 135 Bremen street, East Boston, a navy yard employe, who was arrested on the charge of stealing by violence $14 from John McDermott, another navy yard employe, was held in $1,000 by United States Commissioner Hayes. Messina was committed to East Cambridge jail in default of bail, the case being continued to Wednesday.

William Hannon, of No. 5 Cross street, Charlestown, and Charles Russell, of No. 40 Pleasant street, Charlestown, also navy yard employes, arrested on the same charge as Messina, pleaded not guilty, and were allowed to go on personal recognisance of $500, their cases being continued to Wednesday.

SUSPEND BUSINESS IN BIG STRIKE AT CALGARY

Vancouver, B. C., May 27.—A general strike has been declared at Calgary, according to a dispatch received here. All lines of business activity have been suspended.

Telegraph operators of the Canadian Press Association left their keys and not a line of news is available over press wires. More than 8,000 are affected. The strike is in sympathy with the movement in Winnipeg.

COURT FREES SAILOR AND NAVY GETS HIM

Christopher J. Berg, a sailor, arrested May 20 while attempting to enter the store of Ryan Brothers on River street, Waltham, was turned over to the naval authorities after the case against him was dismissed in the Waltham Court today.

HOUSE 'TURNS DOWN' SUNDAY BASEBALL

Bill Passed by Senate Loses in Lower Branch, by Vote of 110 to 97

The Sunday baseball bill, which passed the Senate by a vote of 29 to 6, was defeated by the House today on a roll-call vote 110 to 97.

Representative Neeland of Winchester, the Republican "whip" of the House, son of Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, of the Lord's Day League, again led the opposition forces against the bill. Some of the high points of debate:

Representative Reidy of Boston:

"The beaches are open all day Sunday. There is much pernicious gambling. There are golf, auto riding and other diversions, but we deny the great American game which is so popular. I do not see why we should permit foreign games and prohibit our purely American game. The bill will promote manhood, strength and self-control. On the ball field a man learns how to be a man. I have no fear from attendance at Sunday baseball. I have seen 50,000 men in Chicago walk out from a game as quietly as a Sunday congregation."

Representative Kelleher of Cambridge:

Thirty-five States have Sunday baseball. Is Massachusetts any better than those States? The boys must have sports on Sunday. If the bill was necessary for the soldiers overseas, why is it not necessary now?"

Representative Lane of Boston: "Debate will not change votes. I have written personal letters to each of the twenty clergymen in my district and thus far they are equally divided. I move to amend so that the outdoor sports be permitted only within the boundaries of wards in which a majority of the voters are in favor of accepting the act."

Representative Greenwood of Everett:

"God rested on the seventh day, and therefore all men should observe the rest day. What will be left for the churches? I deny that the soldiers are the force behind the bill. It is purely a business proposition for the sake of money making."

Representative Baldwin of Brookline:

"There is no place where the Bible says anything against Sunday recreation, but it is only against Sunday work, and nobody proposes to permit any more work. It is only a bill for local option for recreation. No city or town need have Sunday sports unless it so votes. I believe that children should have an opportunity for Sunday sports."

Representative Reading of Cambridge, quoting the law against profane swearing, said there were hundreds of thousands of citizens of this State who would be outraged if the bill were passed.

House Resolution Calls on Congress to Establish Permanent Food Board

A resolution declaring that present food conditions were "unreasonable, exorbitant and extortionate," and calling upon Congress to establish a permanent commission with power to regulate prices and stamp out profiteering and speculation, was offered in the House by Representative James H. Brennan of Charlestown today.

The resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Rules for a public hearing at Mr. Brennan's suggestion, declared:

"Whereas, it is almost universally agreed that the present food prices are unreasonable, exorbitant and extortionate, that such conditions naturally tend to breed dissatisfaction, discontent and discord; and,

"Whereas, the immediate creation of a National Food Commission, or some similar agency, is positively imperative, said board to be vested with power to control, regulate and fix food prices; also delegated with authority to punish acts involving storage hoarding, speculation and profiteering in the staple necessities of life; and be it further

"Ordered, that the Massachusetts House of Representatives respectfully urges the National Congress to recognize this paramount problem by the prompt passage of remedial legislation, such as suggested herein; and be in further

Ordered, that the clerk of the House be directed to transmit forthwith a copy of the order to the Senators and Representatives from Massachusetts in the Congress of the United States at Washington.

Amended Preamble of Anti-Anarchy Bill Hits Non-Residents

An emergency preamble declaring that "there is now in this Commonwealth a considerable number of persons, mainly non-residents, who are striving to promote anarchy in the community and who are inciting others to acts of violence with a view to the overthrow of all government," was attached to the so-called "anti-anarchy" bill by the House today. The vote was 183 to 4.

Representatives Bigney, Fitzgearld and Niland of Boston and Odlin of Lynn voted against the emergency preamble, which enables the bill to become effective at once. The bill was enacted by the House and then sent to the Senate for similar action.

During the debate today, Representative Bigney asserted that the bill violated all guaranteed rights of free speech and asked to have it sent to the attorney-general to determine its constitutionality. Representative Allen of Norwood said that Attorney-General Attwill had already been consulted.

Representative Powers said he had been informed that "several attempts had been made to blow up the State House and that there was urgent need for the passage of the bill."

GEORGE HADDAD, office boy of Boston American, a hustler for the Victory Loan. He sold $61,000 in bonds and received a medal for his services.

URGE APPEAL TO CONGRESS FOR DAYLIGHT

A. Lincoln Filene, chairman of the special committee on daylight saving of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, today issued an appeal to the people of Massachusetts to protest to their Senators and Congressmen at Washington against the passage by Congress of the rider to the agricultural bill which, if adopted, will abolish the daylight saving law two weeks after its signature by the President. Immediate action on the part of all persons interested in preserving daylight saving is imperative, Mr. Filene said.

"We know that business organizations, labor organizations, athletic organizations, home garden organizations, and other influential groups of people are strongly in favor of daylight saving," Mr. Filene said. "We hope that they will make every effort both as organizations and as individuals to prevent the repeal of the Daylight Saving Law.

"While we regret that agricultural interests are injured in any way by this law, we believe that the very slight injury is far overshadowed by the health and welfare of the far greater number of people who reside in the city and towns who must do much of their work indoors, and who need the additional hour of daylight for recreation."

OFFICE BOY GETS V LOAN MEDAL FOR HIS WORK

George Haddad, Fifteen, Made Speeches With Curley and Logan; Sold $61,000 Bonds

Fifteen-year-old George Haddad, an office boy in the editorial rooms of the Boston American, has received a Victory Loan medal from the United States Treasury Department for his "patriotic services in behalf of the Liberty Loans," as the medal says in raised lettering. The medal was made from captured German cannon.

George is of Syrian descent and is the son of Mrs. Margaret Haddad of No. 47 Albany street.

On the closing day of the Victory Loan drive George secured time off to help "finish the job." He spoke at the newsboys' loan rally at Washington and Milk streets with former Mayor James M. Curley and Colonel Edward L. Logan of the 101st Infantry. Having urged his audience to buy bonds, George went into the crowd and took subscriptions so industriously that the amount of bond sales credited to him rolled up to the big total of $61,000.

On the previous Saturday, at the end of the second week of the Victory Loan drive, George spoke with other Syrians at Victory Court on Boston Common and brought bond buyers forward with his lavish patriotism.

He also has a bronze medal, awarded for energy in helping the Fourth Loan.

He is a star scout of Boy Scout Troop No. 11 of Boston.

With the Victory Loan medal George received a letter from Graydon Stetson, vice-chairman of the Massachusetts committee on citizens of foreign birth or descent, one of the sub-committees of the Liberty Loan Committee of New England. The letter says:

"It gives me great pleasure to enclose herewith a medal prepared by the United States government in recognition of the services which you have performed in aiding the war loan organization. The metal of this medal was taken from captured German cannon, and I trust that it will not only be to you a remembrance of the appreciation and thanks of this committee, but also a souvenir of a pleasant association with a task which was noteworthy for the spirit of loyalty and patriotism which were at all times evident."

LAWRENCE SPECIAL POLICE ARE LAID OFF

Lawrence, May 27.—The local police roster is now 102 men. All out-of-town police and reserves have been laid off by Police Commissioner Peter Carr. About eighty special policemen, mostly returned soldiers, who have been doing strike duty were laid off Saturday. Every regular police officer on the force will receive a four weeks' vacation this year owing to overtime work and the loss of days off.

FOUR WOMEN GRADUATE AT PHARMACY COLLEGE

Degrees of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy were conferred upon graduates by President C. Herbert Packard today at the fifty-first commencement in the George Robert White Hall. Three were conferred with the degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist and seventeen were conferred with the Graduate of Pharmacy. Among the latter were four women. Music was furnished by the Salem Cadet Band.

WARRANTS TO REPLACE LAWRENCE SUMMONSES

Lawrence, May 27.—The local police will adopt a new method of securing the presence in court of automobilists who violate the laws. Instead of issuing summonses to appear in court, law violators will be arrested on warrants. Out of four summoned to court, but one offender appeared to enter a plea.

WILSON ASKS AMERICANS TO SET WORLD EXAMPLE

me and that his (Pessoa's) presidency is ahead of him."

"We, among other friends of liberty, are asking the world to unite in the interest of brotherhood and mutual service and the genuine advancement of individual and corporate liberty throughout the world," said President Wilson. "Therefore we must set the example."

The text of the President's address follows:

"Gentlemen, this honor has been accorded me of making the first speech tonight, and I am very glad to avail myself of that privilege.

"I want to say that I feel very much at home in this company, though, after all, I suppose no one of us feels thoroughly at home except on the other side of the water. We all feel in a very real sense that we have a home, because we have in the atmosphere the same conceptions, and, I think, the same political ambitions and principles.

"I am particularly glad to have the opportunity of paying my very cordial respects to Mr. Pessoa.

"It is very delightful, for one thing, if I may say so, to know that my presidency is not ahead of me, and that his presidency is ahead of him. I wish him every happiness and every success with the greatest earnestness.

"And, yet, I cannot, if I may judge by my own experience, expect for him a very great exhilaration in the performance of the duties of his office, because, after all, to be head of an American nation is a task of unrelieved responsibility. American constitutions are a rule put so many duties of the highest sort upon the President, and so much of the responsibility of affairs of state is centred upon him, that his years of office are apt to be years a little weighed with anxiety, a little burdened with the sense of obligation of speaking for his people, speaking what they really think, and endeavoring to accomplish what they really desire.

HIS DELICATE TASK.

"I suppose no more delicate task is given any man than to interpret the feelings and purposes of a great people. I know that I may speak for myself the chief anxiety I have had has been to be the true interpreter of a nation desirous of pressing no private and peculiar views, but trying to express the general spirit of a nation. And a nation looks to its President to do that, and the confidential relationship like this does not consist merely of the sense of neighborhood. We are neighbors. We have always been friends. But that is all old. Something new has happened. I am not sure that I can put it into words, but there has been added to the common principles which have united the American mind of right a feeling that the world at large has accepted those principles, that there has gone a thrill of hope and of expectation throughout the nations of the world which somehow seems to have its source and fountain in the things we always believed in.

It is as if the pure waters of the fountains we had always drunk from had now been put to the lips of all peoples, and they have drunk and were refreshed. And it is a delightful thought to me that we have here the fountains which sprung up out of the soil of the American.

"I do not, of course, suggesting or believing that political liberty had its birth in the American hemisphere, because, of course, it did not, but the peculiar expression of it is characteristic of the modern time, that broad republicanism, that genuine feeling and practice of democracy that is becoming characteristic of the modern world, did have its origin in America, and the response of the people of the world to this new expression is, we may perhaps pride ourselves, a response to an American suggestion.

"If that is true we owe the world a peculiar service. If we originated great practices we must ourselves be worthy of them. I remember not long ago attending a very interesting meeting which was held in the interest of combining Christian missionary effort throughout the world. I mean eliminating the rivalry between churches and agreeing that Christian missionaries should not represent this, or that or the other church, but should represent the general Christian impulse and principle of the world. I said I was thoroughly in sympathy with the principle, but that I hoped if it was adopted the inhabitants of the heathen countries would not come to look at us, because we were not ourselves united, but divided; that while we were asking them to unite, we ourselves did not set the example.

"My moral from that recollection is this: We among other friends of liberty are asking the world to unite in the interest of brotherhood and mutual service and the genuine advancement of individual and corporate liberty throughout the world. There, fore, we must set the example.

"I will recall to some of you an effort that I made some years ago, soon after I assumed the presidency of the United States, to do that very thing. I was urging the other States of America to unite with the United States in doing something which very closely resembled the formation of the present League of Nations.

FOR AMERICA FIRST.

"I was ambitious to have the Americas do the thing first and set the example to the world of what we are now about to realize. I had a double object in it, not only my pride that the Americas should set the example and show the genuineness of their principle, but that the United States should have a new relation to the other Americas. The United States upon a famous occasion warned the governments of Europe that it would regard it as an unfriendly act if they tried to overturn free institutions in the western hemisphere and substitute their own system of government, which at that time were inimical to those free institutions, but while the United States thus undertook of its own motion to be the champion of America against such aggression from Europe, it did not give any conclusive assurance that it would never itself be the aggressor.

"What I wanted to do in the proposals to which I have just referred was to offer to the other American States our own bond that they were safe as against us and any illicit ambitions we might entertain, as well as safe so far as the power of the United States could make them, safe, against foreign nations.

"Of course, I am sorry that sanguine consummation did not come but, after all, no doubt the impulse was contributed to by us which has now laid a sort of mutual pledge on the part of all the self-governing nations of the world that they will be friends to each other not only, not that they will take pains to secure each other's safety and independence and territorial integrity.

"No greater thing has ever happened in the political world than that, and I am particularly glad to dwell at night to think of the hours I have had the pleasure of spending with Mr. Pessoa as a member, along with him, of the commission of the League of Nations which prepared the covenant which was submitted to the conference."

TURKS 'WHITEWASHING' PRESENT GOVERNMENT

Lausanne, Switzerland, May 27.—The present Turkish government is trying to "whitewash" itself before the rest of the world in regard to Armenian atrocities, blaming the old regime for the revolting massacres, says the Gazette. A secret letter written by former Grand Vizier Talaat Pasha, has been published in Constantinople proclaiming the extermination of the Armenians. "I assume all moral responsibility," wrote Talaat Pasha.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLS GIRL PLAYMATE

St. Johnsbury, Vt., May 27—At the home of Mrs. D. S. Wright on Pearl street her fifteen-year-old son, Caswell Harber, discharged what he thought was an empty revolver and instantly killed his playmate, Blanche Hunt, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt. The authorities held the Harber boy at home today pending the autopsy. The Hunt girl would have graduated from the Junior High School in June.

LONDON TREATY DENOUNCED BY WILSON

By JOHN T. PARKERSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, May 27.—The Italian envoys are again threatening to hold up the peace proceedings unless the Adriatic problems are definitely settled in the Austrian treaty, it was understood today.

While it is regarded as virtually certain that the Italians will sign the German treaty it is learned from French official circles Premier Orlando and his colleagues are insisting that the Austrian treaty dispose of Fiume and the Dalmatiant coast, otherwise they will refuse to sign.

The new complications which have arisen in the Italian situation have led President Wilson to notify the other members of the Big Four that he will not agree to the United States accepting the treaty of London, which the Italians are again demanding be carried out. Furthermore, the President has declined to consider the boundaries proposed for Jugo-Slavia because he believes that adherence to the treaty of London will not assure the new Slav state proper outlets to the sea.

The President is determined in this matter, and as a result it is suggested that Great Britain and France may be compelled to act with Italy, the United States holding aloof, so far as Adriatic questions are concerned. President Wilson bitterly denounced the pact of London at a meeting of the Big Four. However, the Italians are standing pat on their demands, while Premier Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau insist that they cannot give in upon the pledges made in the pact. It is now regarded as possible that the Austrian treaty may be drawn without fixing definitely the boundaries of Jugo-Slavia to allow American participation.

The method of the Italians in landing troops in Turkey without consulting the allied and associated governments also caused some anxiety. The latest Italian act in occupying Sokia (Asia Minor) if followed up at one or two points would give the Italians virtually control of the coast in the vicinity of Smyrna.

In the meantime the Turks are massing protests to the conference against the landing of Greek troops at Smyrna and are asking that allied forces be sent to avoid bloodshed.

A previous report stated that French and British troops had been landed at Smyrna in addition to the Greeks but that the Greeks were occupying the main portion of the city.)

President Wilson will leave for the United States within a fortnight, according to present plans. It is possible that the date of his departure may be fixed as early as June 3. The President is willing to assist to the best of his ability in cleaning up the Austrian situation. However, he feels that the situation in the United States requires his immediate return. It is likely that, should the Austrian negotiations be delayed, he will allow the other commissioners to settle the detail.

It is possible that the President may even name some substitute in his place should the necessity arise.

The understanding in allied circles is that the Big Four will devote only a short time to the German counter-proposals, and will then demand that the Germans accept or reject the treaty within forty-eight hours. It is stated that, while further modification in the treaty is expected, it will simply be along the line to make the carrying out of the terms easier, in the meanwhile the allied armies are ready to strike at a moment's notice should there be an eleventh-hour rejection.

Colonel E. M. House, it is understood, is planning to go to London within the next two weeks regardless of what happens. The object of his trip is to begin the organization of the League of Nations, and he will probably remain there until September.

The idea is to complete the organization as far as possible before the first meeting is held in Washington in October.

'IT SHALL NOT PASS,' SAYS LODGE

Washington, May 27.—"It shall not pass."

Paraphrasing the immortal French prophecy of Verdun, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts was reported today to have thus addressed himself to the Republican delegation to the House from his State with regard to the modified League of Nations covenant.

Republican representatives from Massachusetts also reported that the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Republican majority leader had emphatically declared that not only would the covenant not be ratified by the Senate in its present form, but added:

"Its claws will be cut by a substantial majority of the Senate."

Considerable significance was attached to Senator Lodge's prediction by league opponents at the capitol, it was stated.

He was said to share the frequently expressed confidence of other anti-league Senators—both Republican and Democratic—that they would be able, to muster sufficient votes not only to make sweeping changes in the covenant, but to strip it from the peace treaty.

FORMER MRS. VANDERBILT TO RESIDE IN BOSTON

Newport, R. I., May 27.—Lieutenant and Mrs. Paul Fitzsimons, the former Mrs. Gladys Vanderbilt, propose taking up their residence in Boston, where the former has been assigned as executive officer of the destroyer Thornton, under completion at Fore River. The Thornton will be assigned to service in European waters after her trials and other work pertaining to commissioning, which usually requires several months' time.

AUTOS NOW STOLEN AT RATE OF ONE EVERY FOUR HOURS

WARNING TO ALL OWNERS

"Watch Your Car," Say the Police, Now Seeking "Den" of Thieves

Eighteen automobiles were stolen in Greater Boston in the seventy-two-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today.

That is at the rate of one car in every four hours.

This record was established when the theft of six cars yesterday—five in Greater Boston and one in Worcester—were announced today by the Boston police for the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m.

The Boston thefts were:

Touring car stolen from in front of No. 1,482 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, owned by James M. Hyde of No. 73 Braddield street, Roxbury.

Touring car stolen from in front of Park Riding School, No. 145 Ipswich street, Back Bay, owned by Joseph Rutenburg, No. 10 Wanubech street, Roxbury. Later this car was found abandoned by the Roxbury Crossing police.

Touring car stolen from in front of No. 701 Beacon street, Roxbury, owned by Benjamin Orlick, No. 21 Harlan street, Dorchester.

THEFTS IN CAMBRIDGE.

The two car thefts in Cambridge were:

Touring car owned by Dr. King of No. 788 Massachusetts avenue.

Roadster owned by H. E. Pratt of Strathcona hall, Cambridge.

The sixth case reported to the Boston police was the theft of a car with Connecticut registration, owned by L. B. Cranska, which was stolen in Worcester.

The touring car of Mr. Rutenburg, which was stolen from in front of the Park Riding School and which was later found by the police of Roxbury Crossing station, bore a dealer's registration number.

The police say that cars with dealers' numbers are more apt to be abandoned, after being stolen, because there is more risk in trying to dispose of them than of ordinary cars. Two dealers' cars, stolen in Boston over the week-end, were recovered in Cambridge yesterday.

The police are searching for the secret "stripping stations" where stolen cars are changed over for selling purposes.

Russell Mann of Dorchester and Herbert A. Ellis were in the City Court charged with stealing a touring car of Winslow P. Burhoe of Reading. This car was taken on a downtown street, was abandoned and was later found by the police.

Mann was given a year's probation, and Ellis, who was on parole from the Shirley School, was turned over to the school authorities.

WATCH YOUR CAR.

Of the thirteen cars stolen last week-end, three have been recovered; a touring car belonging to Harry Waterman of Bickerstaff street, Back Bay; andother owned by W. L. Russell of the Motor Mart, and a third, found abandoned.

Owners of stolen cars for which the police are still searching are: Milton Elsofer, No. 239 Harvard avenue, Allston; John F. Rich, No. 184 Havin Hill avenue; the Knights of Columbus, who lost a big touring car used in their war activities; George D. Field, No. 21 Montvale road, West Newton; Walter M. Broderick, No. 21 Yarmouth street, Back Bay, and Natan Rishobs, No. 7 Harold street, Roxbury.

The problem has reached alarming proportions. In an effort to run down the thefts, the police are asking the co-operation of the public to safeguard cars.

"If you prize your car, keep your eye on it," is their plea.

That a highly organized gang of thieves is devoting its time and energies to stealing cars even the police agree. It is said that this organization devotes its attention chiefly to the cheaper makes of cars, because this sort of car can be handled more expeditiously and more profitably than the higher priced cars.

It is believed that the actual thieves are in the employ of men who maintain a garage for the express purpose of hastily reconstructing the stolen cars. The actual thief, it is believed, is the least important link in the elaborate chain.

Cars recently recovered have been found to consist of sections of several cars reassembled. The scheme is to steal three or four cars at the same time and have them driven to the "stripping" station.

There the several cars are pulled part, and from these parts other cars are constructed. Thus an owner may find his engine reposing in a chassis of another car. This system makes it almost impossible to identify the cars.

It is believed in automobile circles that this stripping and reconstruction is done somewhere not far from the centre of Boston. Auto experts say that it is possible to pull apart and rebuild the cheaper grades of cars in this manner—and even change their color in an almost unbelievably short period of time.

The rebuilt cars are then sold. The whole transaction, the theft, rebuilding, repainting, and sale of the car can easily be accomplished in a day.

"Passage of legislation compelling the establishment of a record of the sale and transfer of automobiles is the only remedy to halt the present, ever increasing activities of auto thieves."

This is the candid opinion of A. Shirley Ladd, secretary of the Automobile Mutual Liability Insurance Company of Boston.

In a sense he blames "public demand for street parking" as one of the opportunities offered to the professional auto thief.

"Who can prevent a thief from coming along and making a get-away? Surely, the thief may have all appearance of owning the machine, and to prove he didn't might be a difficult task to do in a short space of time."

The various safety locking devices did not appeal to him very much. "There is not a lock in existence that can prevent the professional thief from carrying out his intentions," he declared.

BOSTON JEWS TO PARADE AND PROTEST

At 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, 50,000 Jewish workers of Boston and vicinity will assemble in Park Square for a parade through the principal streets of Boston, thence to Mechanics Building for a mass meeting and solemn protest against the pogroms of Eastern Europe, especially Poland and Galicia. Each of the marchers will wear a mourning band upon the arm. Five bands will be in line.

The rabbis of the various synagogues will fast on this day and conduct solemn services and prayers in memory of the dead. The mass meeting will be addressed by speakers of national repute. Resolutions of protest will be read and forwarded to President Wilson and to the peace conference in Paris.

"The Boston event is part of a nation-wide movement to create a better understanding of the situation," declared Alexander Brin, editor of the Jewish Advocate. He opined that his people had no hatred for the Polish element of the country and that the mass meetings were not arranged in the spirit of arousing revenge.

"The pogroms, from Lemberg to Pinsk, are without doubt the work of provocateurs. At Pinsk, fifty-six Jews from all parts of Poland assembled to discuss the distribution of food sent to them from the Poles and Jews of America. During the session Polish Legioneers came upon them, turned them into the street, where they were tortured and finally shot down in cold blood."

The Pinsk affair was the climax of a series of pogroms starting at Lemberg. At the latter place the Jews were burned to death in their synagogues with the Holy Scrolls.

"Of the four millions of Jews in Poland and Galicia today, all of them want to see the establishment of the Kingdom of Poland. But also, they want to be assured of the welfare of their class. They want no set of rules for the Poles and a set for the Jews. They want American ideals transplanted there."

The majority of Boston Jews come from that section and that is the chief reason for their interest in the present state of affairs.

New Raffles-Proof Device Appeals to Auto Owners

With the alarming increase of automobile thefts in Boston becoming known throughout the country, manufacturers are flooding this city with Raffles-proof devices of all kinds, which are being eagerly purchased by driver owners and proprietors of costly limousines alike.

A brand-new thief-proof apparatus made its first appearance in Boston today, being attached to a big five-passenger automobile at the corner of High and Summer streets. The device locks on a front wheel, and the ride, causing the machine to be unmanageable if started, and ringing a bell if the parts of the apparatus are tampered with.

A crowd of interested auto owners crowded about the machine interestedly discussing the lock.

Other devices, which have been on the market for years, but had a small sale, are enjoying great popularity as tales of the wholesale thefts of cars spill in. Motor "locked" machines were noticed at the Washington street curb today than ever before, but the number of absolutely unprotected cars is still the despair of the police.

LEOMINSTER MAN OLD ARMY MATE OF ALLENBY

Leominster, May 27.—Leominster boasts of a man who served with the famous General Allenby when he was in more shavetail. He is Patrick Regan, a blacksmith, who lives on Cedar street. He knew the famous conqueror of Palestine when he was first commissioned in the British Army. It was in 1886, when General Allenby was a lieutenant in the Sixth Inniskillin Dragoons. He was just out of home and was assigned to the regiment and went through the Zulu rebellion in 1887, and 1888. He was even then considered one of the best officers in the crack British regiment says Mr. Regan.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be employed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair, instead of just to the top of the head. This, when rubbed into the scalp and on to every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather as created you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advertisement.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, which makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

PROMINENT MEN INDORSE 'BUILD NOW' PLAN

Those Who Know Advocate Campaign as Duty and Investment

Are you narrow-minded?

If not, get into the swim—and BUILD NOW.

If deep down in your heart—or your boots, as the case may be—you know you are, then sit down for a moment and think it over.

Narrow-mindedness means not only the lack of a generous outlook—it means the inability to look ahead. It means the inability to see in the future what another man can see.

Sometimes these qualities are due to a lack of information. Sometimes it is just plain stubbornness—you will not see what the other man can see whether you are able or not.

For both of these qualities (afflictions) the American is furnishing a remedy.

For the man who was narrow-minded because he lacked information, the American is presenting a series of articles, quoting many of Boston's and Massachusetts' most prominent men on the BUILD NOW proposition. They contain first-hand information by men in a position to know.

MANY INDORSE CAMPAIGN.

By the same token, the American is presenting a concise view of the situation for the man who is narrow-minded because he is stubborn. In these articles the men who really know advocate the "BUILD NOW" campaign as not only a patriotic duty but a desired financial investment.

Governor Coolidge has indorsed the American's campaign. So has Mayor Peters. So has Senator Walsh. So have scores of leading architects and business men.

In the closing paragraph of his indorsement of the BUILD NOW campaign, Senator David I. Walsh says:

"The 'BUILD NOW' campaign should stir all our people—the investor, real estate men, home owner, building contractor, manufacturer and banker—to a realization of their opportunity to be of real service to America at this time in helping to solve the unemployment problem, put money into circulation, and make for general prosperity."

Mayor Peters says, "I firmly believe that the present is a crucial period and if industry in all its branches is not speeded up to its full capacity this country will not be in a position to grasp the many opportunities which the end of the war will spread before it.

"In addition, the movement should provide employment for those who might otherwise find difficulty in securing it, and this is of particular importance to men now being discharged from the service. It therefore has my heartiest support."

"The Building Boom is surely coming—and it is coming with a rush," Joseph H. O'Neil, president of the Federal Trust Company, is of the opinion that it will hit this city not later than the middle of July.

CANNOT MEET DEMAND.

"Just as soon as the people realize that everything has to start from a new—a higher level—everything in the building line will hum," he said. "I look for that by at least the middle of July. Already the people are beginning to realize the necessity of building now, and the demand for houses is so great that it cannot be met. Consequently the people have demonstrated to them in a thorough and practical way a need for more houses."

Leslie M. Allen, member of the National Housing Association and connected with the Aberthaw Construction Company with offices at No. 22 School street, believes that the government should build homes for the workers—and BUILD THEM NOW. He takes for example Bridgeport, Ct., and Detroit. Detroit has recently appropriated $5,000,000 for community houses. Bridgeport manufacturers are building houses and renting them to the workers.

"In order to make for national prosperity and happiness," says Mr. Allen, "we should not wait. We should go forward—and BUILD NOW."

B. U. TO EXCHANGE WITH CHINESE COLLEGE

The "Boston-Nanking Association" is to be incorporated in Boston University tomorrow afternoon. A meeting for this purpose will be held in the assembly hall at the College of Business Administration. Stereopticon pictures of Nanking College will be shown, and pamphlets entitled, "Facts About Nanking," are being distributed among the student body, in whom it is hoped to encourage interest in making Nanking and Boston Universities better acquainted and to exchange students for special courses.

GUARD TOLEDO WORKERS RETURNING TO MILLS

Toledo, May 27.—Heavily armed returned soldiers, special police and city officials headed by Mayor Schreiber were on hand when the Willys-Overland and Electric Auto-Lite plants were re-opened here after being closed more than two weeks on account of labor trouble. About 2,000 workers returned to their jobs between files of pickets who heckled them.

Building Trades Employers Indorse "Build-Now" Campaign

Building Trades Employers' Association of Boston.
No. 1 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., May 9, 1919.

To the Boston American, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen—The "Build-Now" Campaign inaugurated by the Boston American should be of great value in creating a resumption of business in the construction field. We approve this campaign for the stimulation of public works, the building of homes, and construction of all kinds which will undoubtedly prove very advantageous at this time because the entire country stands greatly in need of extensive building activities.

Action should not be delayed in this matter so that the immediate resumption of business may provide the necessary employment for the steadily increasing number of unemployed, particularly in the building industry.

Very truly yours,
BUILDING TRADES EMPLOYERS' ASSOCIATION OF BOSTON.

PARKER F. SOULE,
President.

MAYOR FAVORS $2,500 RAISE FOR MURPHY

Salary increases for city employes totalling some thousands of dollars were discussed by the City Council. The 1919 budget will be put through as speedily as possible, probably by Thursday.

It is proposed to increase the salary of Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy from $5,000 to $7,500. The Mayor urges this be brought about by an amendment of the ordinances, so that the wire department can be merged with the fire department.

Among the wage increases the council requested Budget Commissioner Carven to take up with the Mayor are $100 to $300 each for department foremen, thus making a maximum of $1,800 for the foremen in the park department, paving service and those having charge of carpenters.

Other city employes whose pay the Council would increase are stablemen and watchmen. Inspectors of the health department, captains of ferry boats, and other workers in various branches.

From Police Commissioner Curtis was received a communication to the effect that matrons will hereafter receive $1,500, and assistants $1,200 and $1,100, these being the latest increases in the final branch of the municipal service.

Announcement was also made by the Mayor that the ten deputy sealers of weights and measures will be given further increases of $100 for this year, making their pay $1,700.

BOSTON AMERICAN

And why the name HEARTS OF THREE — Well, there are Francis Morgan, the beautiful Leoncia, Henry Morgan, like Francis, a descendant of the famous freebooter, and the strange but lovely maid of the Cordilleras, The Lady Who Dreams and to whom the future is an open book.

When you have started this vivid and dramatic serial you will find yourself transported from modern Fifth avenue to primitive Central America, in the fastnesses of which the Mayas guarded the secrets of a lost race.

And you will have the satisfaction of reading this last work of Jack London in the Boston American day by day BEFORE it has appeared in magazine or book form.

Cadum Ointment for Skin Troubles

People who have itched and scratched for years get peaceful sleep and rest through the use of Cadum Ointment. It stops the itching at once and is very soothing and healing wherever the skin is irritated or inflamed. Cadum Ointment is good for eczema, pimples, blotches, itch, tetter, scaly skin, eruptions, chafings, piles, rash, sores, scabs, ringworm, cutsy cic.

[Cadum Ointment is a French perfection] Made in America from the original formula

To Keep the Face Fresh, Clear, Youthful

More important than the cosmetic care of the complexion is its physical care. To keep the face clean, fresh, youthful, there's nothing better than common cuticura soap. It absorbs the soiled or faded worn-out skin particles, dissolves simply and unobtrusively to the complexion. That's the difference. In all means, acquire the mercolized wax habit. It's so easy to get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's, apply at night like cold cream and wash off next morning. There's no detention indoors, the old skin coming off so gradually no one suspects you're using anything. When in a week or two the alluringly youthful, rosetike under skin is fully in view—well, you won't want, or need, a make-up completion after that. It must be apparent that this process means complete eradication of all cutaneous blemishes, like freckles, pimples, blotches and blackheads.—Advertisement.

Superfluous Hair Now Removed Roots and All!
(New and Instantaneous Home Method)

A boon to women troubled with superfluous hair is the new phenacine process. It is totally unlike the depilatory, electrical and other methods heretofore employed for the removal of hairy growths. It is the only thing that makes one to remove the hair completely—roots and all—in one's own home, without the assistance of an expert. The result cannot be doubted, for the user sees the hair-roots with her own eyes.

A stick of phelactine, with easy directions, can be had at any drug store. It is entirely harmless (a child could safely eat it), odorless and non-irritating. It is an instantaneous method, and so thorough that the skin is left perfectly smooth and hairless, bearing not the least evidence of its former disfigurement.—Advertisement.

This Leaves the Skin Free From Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks)

A simple method for completely removing every trace of hair or fuzz is here given. This is painless and usually a single treatment will banish even stubborn growths. To remove hairs, make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain you get delatone.—Advertisement.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get a bottle of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

SKILFUL CIRCUS ACTS THRILL BIG AUDIENCE

Endless Array of Girls, Costumes and Clowns Features Consolidated Show

"Something doing every minute" is the byword at the Huntington avenue circus grounds where the Sells-Floto Consolidation, in their initial appearance in this city, are presenting an unusually entertaining two-hour performance.

Comely girls with gorgeous costumes, numerous clowns, trapeze performers, bareback riders of daring and skill, and two skilful, dainty tight-rope performers serve to amuse the young and old.

The fourteen displays which comprise the main part of the show were well received by the crowded tent. The act of the Princess Victoria, "the Fairy Queen of Mid-Air Thread," received much applause, as did also the act of Miss Herberta Reeson, another gifted tight-rope performer.

Another act which met the approval of the big crowd was the De Garro Troupe in a clever balancing act. There is an abundance of good vaudeville acts on the program, Sweeney and Norton contributing a very difficult contortion stunt.

The usual midway, with its side-shows, peanut stands and "barkers," drew a large crowd all evening. At the end of the main show, a musical comedy entitled "Frolics of Tonight" is given by over thirty pretty chorus girls.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during this week.

EDNA GOODRICH IS HEADLINER AT KEITH'S

Edna Goodrich, the beauty of stage and screen, more recently of the screen, is appearing at Keith's Theatre this week as the headliner. She is presented in a fine one-act sketch, "The Mannaquin," written by the well-known author, Edgar Allen Woolf. She was warmly received. She became a star after her marriage to the late Nat Goodwin.

Girls—beautiful and talented—are presented by Will J. Ward in a new program of vocal and musical selections. They are billed as the "Five Symphony Girls." The musical selections are splendidly rendered.

Lou Holtz, late of Winter Garden fame, comes with this program of breezy features. He's a scream—this "Father Joy's Boy."

Joe Towle, just back from "gay Paree" brings back the gayety and joy from overseas. He is a famous comedy star and lives up to that reputation.

Frank Orth and Ann Cody, in "Let's Take a Walk," help to add to the mirth of the show. Mignon appears with her characterizations which are new and entertaining. Jeanette Hackett and Harry Delmar, in their "Studies in Dance" received an ovation.

Other acts were Davis and Polles, and Frank Burt and Ethel Rosedale. The usual features news events of the week are also displayed.

PALM GARDEN OPENS THURSDAY NIGHT

Thursday evening marks the opening of the famous Palm Garden and Friday of Paragon Park, Boston's leading seaside resort. This year the opening of these ideal play-spots will be the occasion of three days of carnival. Brilliant illuminations and displays of fireworks will be given Friday and Saturday nights, and Sunday night there will be a grand Italian illumination.

Those attending the opening of the Palm Garden next Thursday evening will find many new features to delight them, including the elaborate revue, "The Broadway Revue of 1919," in which an excellent company of talented artists and fifty pretty girls take part. Two orchestras, one a saxaphone jazz band, will figure prominently in the festivities. Mermaida and her diving girls will be seen on the stage of the Garden in a new act called "Psyche at the Bath."

Visitors to the park, which opens with a bang on Friday, will find plenty of pleasant surprises in store for themselves. Among the free acts in the open air will be a high dive from a 100-foot pedestal by Mermaida, Germania dining heroes, King and Queen; De Cano in a new and thrilling high wire act, and a breathtaking loop the loop by Oscar C. Babcock. The merry-go-round, giant coaster, foolish house and other attractions of the park will also be at the service of guests.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home with Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy:

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also, that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their military wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

What Women Need Is Not Cosmetics Or Stimulating Drugs, But Plenty Of Pure Red Blood Rich In Iron

To Give Them Health, Strength and Beauty

Says Dr. George H. Baker, Formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey

Explains How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron Enriches the Blood, Strengthens the Nerves, Builds Up Physical Power and Helps Make Weak, Nervous, Run-Down Women Keen, Active and Tingling with Energy.

"What an awful moment when woman first realizes that she is growing old—that without her make-up, skilful hair-dressing and the whipping effect of temporary stimulants, her face is haggard, pale and worn—her body tired, weak and drooping.

Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dosing with habit-forming drugs and narcotics and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee or other stimulants are keeping thousands of women pale, weak, nervous and constantly longing to be strong and well when their real trouble may be nothing more than lack of iron in the blood. Without iron, the blood has no power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you any good—you don't get the strength out of it. When iron is supplied it enriches the impoverished blood, puts Nature's own color into the cheeks, strengthens the nerves and gives renewed vitality to the whole body. But to take the wrong kind of iron in the hope of getting renewed strength may prove worse than useless, so physicians have been asked to explain below why they prescribe only organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which unlike the older inorganic products is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, or upset the stomach.

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital, New Jersey, says: "What women need to put roses in their cheeks is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs, but plenty of rich, pure red blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or her friends. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood-builders and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron I feel convinced that it is a prescription which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results. Dr. Kenneth E. Macalpine, a prominent New York surgeon, member of the New York State Medical Society and for 16 years Adjunct Professor of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, says: "You can look into eyes whose blood is rich in strength-giving iron, how they flash beautiful health, how cheeked ones radiant with life, vim and energy and you can see cheeks of no where they go. Yet in spite of all that has been said and written by physicians about the alarming iron deficiency in the blood of the average American man and today there are still thousands who need nothing so much as iron to help them put on flesh and build up their strength and vitality and are rather careless of their condition and do not know what to take. In my opinion there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to help make healthy, full-blooded beautiful women by enriching the blood and increasing the red-blood-corpuscles which carry the vital energy-giving power to every part of the body. I often prescribe it in my practice and feel sure that those who take it will soon be astonished at the results they obtain, provided, of course, that they do not take some inferior imitation of iron which will only upset the stomach and do more harm than good."

"The strong, healthy, beautiful woman relies upon pure, red blood, rich in strength-giving iron to keep her cheeks rosy, her nerves steady and her whole being filled with rush and life and vitality."

Nuxated Iron is now so well known that druggists are authorized to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied user after only a few days' trial. It is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. The manufacturers guarantee every package to contain 3 times as much iron as organic iron tablets or the ordinary inorganic iron preparations, and to be entirely free from any dangerous drugs. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron which is prescribed and recommended above by druggists is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. The manufacturers guarantee every package to contain 3 times as much organic iron as organic iron tablets or the ordinary inorganic iron preparations, and to be entirely free from any dangerous drugs. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

DESTITUTE DIVORCEE WANTS MORE ALIMONY

Stating she was destitute, Mrs. Adelida A. Walker appeared before Judge Chase in the equity session of the Superior Court and sought an order for more alimony. She declared that she had been dependent on the charity of friends. She obtained a divorce from William M. Walker of Boston, in 1913, on the ground of desertion, and was given $1,200 as alimony in gross.

Because her petition was not in proper form Judge Chase dismissed it without prejudice and she has the right to bring another.

$25,000 ASKED FOR CAMBRIDGE MAN'S DEATH

Frederick E. Otis of Somerville has been sued for $25,000 by Patrick Sullivan of Cambridge, as administrator of the estate of Mortimer Gallivan of Cambridge. It is alleged that the deceased was run over and killed by a milk wagon owned by the defendant.

Stoneham Boy Scout Killed by Auto of Troopmaster

Stoneham, May 27.—Harold Frost, a thirteen-year-old Boy Scout, was killed at Union and Main streets by an automobile owned and driven by Ralph H. Holman of No. 181 Main street, his former troopmaster.

Frost, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Frost of No. 74 Pond street, was riding a bicycle from Union into Main street when the automobile, in which were Mr. and Mrs. Holman and their son, struck him.

Holman was at once arrested and admitted to $1,000 bail. Witnesses stated that the accident was unavoidable.

The father of the boy is a member of the Metropolitan Park police force.

Sweaty Feet Wrong and Unnecessary

Excessive perspiration from the feet is not normal and should not be permitted. It is annoying, embarrassing and ruinous to shoes. This trouble can be positively and quickly overcome. Cal-o-cide did it for the soldiers in training and for millions of others in recent years. Get a twenty-five cent package from your druggist. The very first treatment brings most gratifying results, and in a short time the trouble will positively be terminated. Some of the worst cases have been mastered in a week. Cal-o-cide also gives prompt relief for aching, tender, puffed or callousted feet. It goes right into the pores and corrects the cause. In addition, each package of Cal-o-cide contains special little plasters that will remove the worst corn in a hurry. Have good feet. Clip this out.—Advertisement.

PEMBERTON INN—A thick fog Sunday necessitated the postponement of the flights of the Curtiss "JN" seaplane at Pemberton Inn although the plane was on hand, and was inspected by hundreds of guests. The flights will be made next Sunday, at which time guests of this well-known dining place will be given an opportunity to make flights in the plane while digesting their dinner.

WALDORF THEATRE—A finely balanced bill of vaudeville acts and motion picture subjects gave unusual pleasure to the patrons of the Waldorf Theatre yesterday. In the vaudeville there were Winkle and Feringe, Mr. Winkle being a returned soldier who was of such repute as an entertainer among the soldiers that he was titled by them "the Singing Yank"; George Randall and company in an amusing one-act comedy, "Too Easy"; Guerre and Carmen in refined musical act, in which they play harp and piano, and Keralake's pigs, a quintet of educated porcine comedians presented by Lily Kerslake.

GLOBE THEATRE—Douglas Fairbanks in his new photoplay, "Knickerbocker Buckaroo," was first shown in Boston at Loew's Globe Theatre, where the photoplay will continue all week. Taking many a leaf from his book of past successes in the way of exciting incident, Mr. Fairbanks has involved in this a series of exciting adventures which form an ideal vehicle for the exploitation of his most favored individual talents. The story concerns a young New Yorker, who tires of his idle life in the city and goes West in search of adventure. He changes identities with a Mexican outlaw and engages in many escapes from law officials, the while engaging in a delightful romance. He meets with sufficient adventure to satisfy him, and finally comes home married to the girl of his choice.

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift them off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard-skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

WORSE THAN DEADLY POISON GAS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. It attacks young and old alike.

In most cases the victim is warned of the approaching danger. Nature fights back. Headache, indigestion, insomnia, lame back, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, pain in the loins and bowel ailments, difficulty in urinating, all are indications of trouble brewing in your kidneys.

When such symptoms appear you will almost certainly find quick relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules.

This famous old remedy has stood the test for two hundred years in helping mankind to fight off disease.

It is imported direct from the home laboratories in Holland, where it has helped to develop the Dutch into one of the sturdiest and healthiest races in the world, and it may be had at almost every drug store. Your money promptly refunded if it does not relieve you. Be sure to get the genuine GOLD MEDAL Brand. In sealed packages, three sizes. Advertisement.

"GONDOLIERS" PROVES A NOVELTY

By FRED J. McISAAC.

It's so long since "The Gondoliers" has been sung in Boston professionally, that it was practically a novelty to the audience which attended the performance by the Gallo company in the Plymouth Theatre last evening.

The Duke of Plaza Toro who incorporated himself, a more rare thing in the eighties than at present, the Grand Inquisitor who tortured his victims by showing them the illustrated weeklies, the two Democratic Gondoliers who got boosted upon a throne and were immediately tipped off, all are characters as whimsical as any created by W. S. Gilbert, while the music is in the freshest and most exquisite veins of Sullivan.

Last night's performance was an admirable one upon the whole, although a person who was out to pick flaws would say that it was not up to the standard set by the "Mikado."

Frank Moulan was playing the Duke for the first time apparently, and didn't know his lines very well. Mabel Day as Gianetta, the soprano bride of the tenor gondolier, sang shrilly and out of tune. Eileen Castles as Casilda, the Spanish girl, sang sweetly and acted most amateurishly.

On the other hand, William Danforth was a constant delight as the dryly humorous grand inquisitor and put over his celebrated song, "Nobody Is Anybody," with fine effect. Warren Proctor and Bertram Phillips sang and acted admirably the two gondoliers, and Gladys Caldwell was winsome and tuneful in the alto role.

Whether the craze for prohibition explains the failure of the chorus to sing while it danced the Cachucha in the second act or they merely didn't know the words I don't know, but this big number lost much of its effectiveness. You remember the verses are:

'Old Zerez we'll drink, Maxanllo, Montero,
For wine when it flows in abundance
Enhances the vesing delight of that rarest of dances
That rarest of dances."

Sylvia Tell, a winsome little creature, graceful and charming, was given a solo dance at this place and demonstrated that she needs to learn a lot about dancing.

It's a satisfaction to watch Max Rendix conduct these operettas. He never lets up, gets every possible effect and makes his chorus sing with a purity of tone and precision most unusual on the comic opera stage.

"The Gondoliers" will give place on Thursday to "The Mikado."

GAYETY THEATRE—Harry T. Shannon, Shorty N. McAllister and Anna Propp form as happy a combination of stars as are to be found in burlesque. They head a most capable cast of players this week at the Gayety in "Step Lively, Girls," an Arthur Pearson production. Shannon is six feet of merry comedy, while McAllister is about four feet of the same material. Supporting these principals are Raymond Paine, who runs hotels and corset shops in a rapid-fire manner and furnishes plenty of amusement. Margie Wilson and Sunny Wade make excellent song and dance leads, and Jack Mundy in black face is all that could be desired. Miss Propp is about as lively and diminutive an eccentric dancer as is to be found in burlesque. She does a dance specialty with Shannon, who is more than twice her height, that is a scream. As the "Jazz Quartet," Shannon, McAllister, Mundy and Paine make a hit. The chorus is better than the average and are elegantly costumed.

NORUMBEGA PARK — Summer amusement promoters are promised a record-breaking season if the opening at Norumbega Park last Saturday may be taken as a criterion, as never before in the history of the park has the opening been so tremendous. In spite of the inclement weather the theatre, where the Liberty Players are presenting "Here Comes the Bride," was filled twice.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE—At the Shubert Theatre last night "The Eyes of the World" began the third week of its engagement with the attendance still indicating great popular interest in this screen version of Harold Bell Wright's famous novel.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The final week of "The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's charming melodramatic idyl of the Hawaiian Islands, began at the Majestic Theatre last night before a delighted audience.

WILBUR THEATRE—Nora Bayes continues at the Wilbur in her funny musical farce "Ladies First," which is in its third week. There are plenty of lively moments in this musical offering.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE — "Among the Girls," Selwyn's new musical comedy, which descended upon Boston last week, causing much enjoyment among theatregoers, last night began another prosperous week of its indefinite engagement at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Flo-Flo" began its sixth week at the Tremont Theatre last evening still purveying its pleasures for the happy edification of Boston's amusement loving public which finds this an ideal attraction for this period of the year.

Coming Events

COLONIAL THEATRE—Tomorrow night at the Colonial will be inaugurated the David W. Griffith repertory season of photoplays at which the initial offering will be "Broken Blossoms," a photoplay based upon stories found in Thomas Burke's sensational book, "Limehouse Nights." The genius of Mr. Griffith has found ample exemplification in the making of photoplays, and as such he has been the most valuable of innovators to the effect that each novel technical method he has introduced has revolutionized the art to more or less extent. A fountain in artistry, whether in lighting effects, mechanical methods, or exacting of perfection in acting, he has sublimated his craft. And now to further aid in the appreciation by the public of his products, he has turned to methods of displaying them properly to ensure full enhancement of their value.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Harry Garson's extraordinary screen production, "The Unpardonable Sin," starring Blanche Sweet, began an engagement at the Majestic Theatre next Monday, June 1. The picture is a screen version of Major Rupert Hughes' famous book and was completed recently after many months of arduous work. In no sense is "The Unpardonable Sin" a preachment. It is an absorbing tale of love and adventure with incidents of the war in the background. And yet those seriously inclined will find from the manner in which the action is presented, much of a philosophical nature to interest them.

FINE DOMESTIC DRAMA AT ARLINGTON

"Which One Shall I Marry?" a drama of all time, explained in allegory, written by Ralph T. Kettering, occupies the stage at the Arlington Theatre this week.

There is a strange blending of reality with the mystic, but so nicely woven together that the story is not marred, and the lesson, though evident, is not obtrusive.

The plot is suggested plainly by the title and the story is as old as mating, back as far as when the cave man with two stone hammers was a rival of the savage with none.

We are told that the actual play consumes but one hour of real time, and yet two domestic "dramas each told in one long act are supposed to take up but two minutes of the hour.

In the first, a play picture is given of the unhappiness of Agnes Moran, who has married John Bland for his money instead of for love. Of course she is woefully unhappy and lonesome, and the gilded palace is done to perfection until the gay feathered bird takes poison and lets her soul fly free.

The contrasting scene is the home of the poor man who is a laborer in the mills, but who gives to his young wife true happiness instead of everything money can buy." Here is a bit of happy, joyous home life which warms the hearts of an audience unusually responsive last evening.

The girl, though torn and uncertain even to the last, finally chooses wisely and takes Jack Hart, "a poor man," to be her husband.

Mark Kent appeared as a book agent, who in turn represented good advice.

The play not only is filled with melodramatic materials, but has a romance which is intended to bring out the moral that marriage for wealth alone is a pitiful failure.

But the appearance once more of Kate Ryan, with her sweet, motherly face, and with the atmosphere of the old Boston Museum about her, is what makes "Which One Shall I Marry" successful.

Next week "The Rosary" will be given.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—A well constructed bill of vaudeville, yoked with an excellent film program, furnished abundant enjoyment to the patrons of Lowe's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. As headliners there were Lyons and Yosco, long favorites of vaudeville, who appeared in their musical skit, "The Harpist and the Singer." Others appearing were Henderson and Rean in the one-act comedy, "Out of Work"; Bert Walton, variety entertainer, and the Ross Renin song revue. On the screen there were shown the latest new pictures, a comedy, and Douglas Fairbanks in "Knickerbocker Buckaroo," a story of the East and West, in which a young man about-town who is tired of idleness goes to the West in search of adventure.

"CANDIDA" IS REVIVED AT COPLEY

Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Candida," was revived by the Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre, with Jessamine Newcomb in the title role. This is the third presentation of the play given by this company. It is one of the most brilliant and at the same time intensely human of the Shaw plays; not so sparkling in dialogue as some of the other comedies, but full of delightful humor and very real people.

Besides Miss Newcome, there were Cameron Matthews as the Rev. James Mavor Morell, Leonard Craske as Eugene Marchbanks, Viola Roach as Prossy, E. E. Clive as Lexy Mill and Fred W. Permain as Mr. Burgess.

"Candida" was one of the first plays by Shaw to be produced in this country. It was given at the Park Theatre by Arnold Daly and Dorothy Donnelly, and made a tremendous hit with the more discriminating ranks of theatre goers. It has held its own in subsequent reproductions.

The play lies well within the powers of the Jewett Players. And this is a tribute to the company, for "Candida" makes extraordinary demands on its actors. It is a play largely of types; and to be convincing, the actors must be hand in glove with their lines and business, and possessed of a keen sympathy with their respective roles. The humor is not generally epigrammatic, as for instance, in "Arms and the Man" or "The Philanderer". It grows out of the action and is the spontaneous expression of homely folk.

Those listening to Candida's famous "shawl speech" may well wonder at the furore it created when first heard here. Miss Newcome was an attractive and wholesome Candida, admirably suited to the part. Mr. Clive, in the little he had to do as Lexy Mill, showed himself a finished artist. Mr. Craske as the poet and Mr. Matthews as the clergyman are already favorably known here in their roles, and the others gave adequate support.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—The two photoplays that were shown for the first time in Boston at the Modern and the Beacon Theatres were as opposite in theme and treatment as the most ardent searcher for variety could wish. Rex Beach's story, "The Crimson Gardenia," was the one that furnished the thrills. As many readers of a popular magazine will recall, this story concerns the visit of a young man of wealth to New Orleans in the Mardi Gras season, where at the height of the revels he meets with a young woman who is anxiously searching for her cousin, a man who she has never seen. This search brings in its train the most surprising of adventures that assume unwanted seriousness.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—Edmund Breese, America's foremost character actor, is the stellar attraction provided for the patrons of the Somerville Theatre by Manager Clyde E. McArdle for this entire week. The enthusiastic reception accorded this clever actor at both performances yesterday was evidence of the great esteem in which he is held by the playgoing public. Mr. Breese is appearing in a revival of "The Master Mind," a thrilling and heart-absorbing play that recently served him as a vehicle through several prosperous seasons. It has a virginal plot and is essentially a play of thrills, with the finely organized revenge of a man who believes himself wronged and society and the law prosecuted in exacting climax.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very little cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter can supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweet, fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and fair white the skin becomes. Your first application will prove it is harmless and never irritates. Advertisement.

The patterns in

Manhattan Shirts

are really exclusive

That's because Manhattan Shirts are 100 per cent. Manhattan built. That is to say:

The patterns are designed by Manhattan artists in the Manhattan studios.

The fabrics are woven by and for the Manhattan people exclusively, none being sold in the open market.

The shirts are cut and made by Manhattan trained workers in Manhattan shops producing nothing but Manhattan Shirts.

There's no possible chance for any other shirt maker to buy, beg, borrow or steal Manhattan patterns until after it's too late to do him any good.

This exclusive pattern feature may appeal to you or it may not. At any rate, it costs you nothing. For without it, Manhattan Shirts would still be the best values obtainable at

ALEXANDER TO BATTLE BRAVES

He's Fred Mitchell's First Pick for Slab Service—Braves Drop Opener, 1-0

Perseverance means success, according to the well-known seers, and, consequently, Boston fandom is led to believe that the Braves will start winning pretty soon. It may be today, or it may be tomorrow, but it's certain sure it will be sooner or later.

The opening game that went to the Cubs was another of those tough luck affairs. The same Cubs were back on the job this afternoon, and, as they have been having their fair share of bad breads, fortune should smile on the natives of the Wigwam.

The former Philadelphia Nerit, Grover Cleveland Alexander, was on the books to represent the hostiles, unless George Tyler reported all sore—one gone from a lame back that has been bothering him.

The Peril say the Chicago experts, as all his "stuff," though he hasn't quite accustomed himself to the feel of the ballyard, after the short stretches of the trenches in France at, like Hank Gowdy and the rest, are about set to resume baseball at the same old stand.

BEATING ON MOUND.

It was Ray Kearing's turn to go in here for the Braves, the former Yank having rested up since that hectic second inning the other day when the Reds jumped him for five runs, and good spitball pitcher doesn't exist enough joy around the Cub ranks to be visible, and Ray is one of the best men he's right.

Jim Thorpe may get a chance to show in the garden, provided a southpaw appears on the hill for the Hitchells, though Powell has been going along very well the past week, and Cruise is an outfield fixture.

Jim made his bow as a Brave, and opened, but as most of the Braves were helpless before what Phil Douglas was chucking at them, no great fame can be attached therefor.

That initial Cub game never should have been won by the Braves, but when the Cubs were lucky to win it, they made plenty of hits off Little Sister Rudolph, but, save for a instance, they never came when they meant anything.

The one bad spot was the fourth. With two out Leslie Mann bustled a long fly to center. Had not Leslie been sweeping across the field it would have been an easy capture for Joe Dugget. But the agate sweep way on the breast of the breeze and was good for a triple.

KILDUFF'S HIT SETTLER.

Then Kilduff pasted one that missed Red Smith's outstretched glove by the fraction of an inch, and all the scoring of the afternoon was over. Both the Braves never could break through the Douglas defence. They made just one hit, a measlie that Powell pushed through short in the first frame.

After that there was nothing like a hit, though a few fly balls toward centre gave Dugout plenty of exercise and the fans a flock of thrills. Shuffling Phil passed four batters and hit a couple. Two of the walks came to start innings, and were followed by the suicide bunt, but both Braves were marooned.

The Cub tosser had a spitter that was fooling Umpire Harrison as much as it was the batters, and right there was the story of the game. The pastime did show that the local defense had steadied down, and though there were gaps in the men on the bases, the infielders never faltered on any kind of chances.

The team merely had a day off in the hitting line, and this is another day.

INGRAM AWARDED HIGH HONORS AT ANNAPOLIS

Annapolis, Md., May 27.—Midshipman William Ingram, captain and halfback of the football team, and stroke of the crack Naval Academy crew, has been doubly honored. He has been awarded the sword given to the best athlete of the year, and had his name engraved on the Thompson trophy cup, as the midshipman who has done the most to promote athletics. This double honor has been earned only five times in twenty-six years.

FOUR CRACK SWIMMERS GOING BACK FOR MEET

Paris, May 27.—Four swimmers now in the Inter-Allied Games demobilization will be brought to Paris to join the American Expeditionary Force team on the swimming event of the Inter-Allied Games to be held at Joinville-le-Pont, near Paris, June 22 to July 6. They are Lieutenant Norman Ross, Lieutenant Lody Langer, Lieutenant Michael McDermott and George Cunha.

SOUTH AMERICA SOCCER TITLE GAME ENDS IN TIE

Rio Janeiro, May 27.—Playing in the final game for the soccer championship of South America, the Brazil and Uruguay teams battled to a 2-2 tie. They will play it off later this week. Brazil won the water polo championship, defeating Uruguay.

DEMPSEY IN TRAINING

First photos made showing Jack Dempsey at his training camp, Toledo, Ohio. Dempsey's pet "King" also posed.

Jack Dempsey in the ring at his training quarters (at right). Each day Jack goes into it heavy with his sparring partners, getting ready for the big event on July Fourth.

DEMPSEY IN FIRST WORKOUT; CAMP DOG WINS FIGHT

Toledo, May 27.—Boxing with the speed and dash of a lightweight, Jack Dempsey stepped four rounds with Bill Tate, the giant negro sparring partner, in the fastest workout the challenger has had since he began training for his championship battle with Jess Willard here July 4. Dempsey went through his paces in the morning as Trainer Jimmy De Forest believed the heat of the mid-afternoon would make strenuous boxing unpleasant.

Tex Rickard was a visitor at the camp. Rickard heard nothing definite in regard to Willard's departure from Los Angeles, but assumed that the champion had started to Toledo as scheduled.

Misfortune trailed the Dempsey camp all day. To escape colliding with an automobile, Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger, drove his machine into a motorcycle attached to the army recruiting service and seriously injured two soldiers. The motorcycle and side car was wrecked. Kearns rushed the injured soldiers to a hospital and then drove his car to a garage for repairs.

The bulldog presented to Dempsey by a Toledo admirer was responsible for a fracas at the camp.

The dog attacked a neighborhood pet and chewed the animal to death before Dempsey's trainers could stop it.

Columbus, O., May 27.—Representative Dunn of Wood County, has introduced a bill designed to stop the Willard-Dempsey fight in Toledo on July 4.

It would give the Governor the right to stop any fighting exhibition for which a permit has been granted by local authorities.

An emergency clause attached to the bill recites the proposed fight, and says the public peace is endangered, a hotly contested game is looked for.

SOX ANXIOUS TO GET BACK AT FOHLS

Boston Team Badly Crippled in Pitching Department, but Still Hopeful

Cleveland, May 27.—That pitching is at present the crying need of the Boston Red Sox, baseball champions of the universe, goes without saying.

It would seem that a club that could part with the services of two tried and true veterans like Ernie Shore and Dutch Leonard must be pretty well fixed for pitchers, yet such is far from the truth.

The Boston club is hitting the ball pretty well and putting up its usual stiff defence, but is not getting the air-tight pitching for which Boston clubs for years have been famed.

Mullet Joe Bush, he of the terrific speed, is at present a negative quantity so far as pitching is concerned. A month of the season has already passed and Bush has not won a game.

In all probability it will be another month before he is able to take his turn on the rubber, and then what success he may have is very questionable.

PITCHERS GOING BADLY.

Bush had an ailing arm when the season opened. He nursed it carefully, and in the series in Chicago notified Manager Barrow that he was ready.

In the second inning of the game he sent home with one of those fast breaking hooks for which he has been famous. The moment the ball left his hand the good old right arm dropped limp to his side and Bush was through for the day and some time to come.

Babe Ruth, supposed to carry the southpaw pitching burdens of the club, is also carrying an ailing salary whip. Ruth has been taking his turn on the rubber and getting away with it.

RUTH NEEDS A REST.

Although his pitching has lacked the sip of former years, his reputation is getting him by at present, more than the assortment of stuff he is slipping up to the batters.

It is believed that all Ruth needs is a rest and that if kept out of the outfield for a couple of weeks and used only as a pitcher he will soon get back his old-time stuff.

Carl Mays, he of the subway delivery, is just about as good as ever, although still at his best with warm weather on tap.

FOHLS COUNT 12 RUNS.

As proof of the pudding that the Red Sox need pitchers it needs but be cited that Manager Barrow used four of them, headed by Big Babe yesterday, and they got only four pickings for the Indians. The count was 12-7.

It's true that Morton and Covleskie didn't show much in a pitching way for the locals, but Ruth, James, Caldwell and Pennock did.

Larry Gardner, who put Sunday's matinee on the Pink, had another gay time of it with the bat. He slammed out three hits and they all came in the pinch. Speaker coaxed in a single and a double.

Strunk, Scott, McInnis, Shean and Walters all hit harshly for the Red Sox. However, their blows were wasted, so ineffective were their pitchers.

Jack Barry was on the bench at his own request. He has been ailing with stomach trouble of late and needs a rest.

ADRIANS TO PLAY HOLIDAY GAME

A record crowd is expected to witness the game between the Adrians of Roxbury and the South Medford A. A. at the former's grounds on Norfolk avenue, Roxbury, on Friday. "Buck" Sullivan will pitch for the home team, and if he is in true form, a hotly contested game is looked for.

FULLERTON HAD 300,000 SIGNERS AND THEN SOME

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

NEVER until the past week did I realize the extent to which the love of sport extends through the people of America.

I was given the honor of carrying to Washington, to present to Congress, a petition signed by almost half a million young American athletes, asking Congress to remove the tax from athletic goods and equipment used in sports and games.

Just how many names there were on those petitions no one ever will know. Two girls counted until past 300,000, and with hundreds of petitions arriving from all parts of America, they threw up their hands and the place was swamped.

When I reached Washington there was a wire saying that another mass of petitions was being forwarded.

These petitions were clipped from newspapers, were sent on printed forms, on cards, and hundreds upon hundreds of sport lovers who heard the S. O. S. call to save our sports, had sent typewritten petitions with hundreds of signers.

I counted separate petitions from more than 1,000 different communities, and these must have been at least that many different boys' baseball teams signing the plea to Congress.

There were over 200 names on the petition from Sitka, Alaska, where baseball flourishes in spite of the daily rain, and petitions from the Philippines, from Cuba and Hawaii.

The remarkable thing about the petition was that it was not the work of an organization soliciting signatures and making a canvass of large cities. It was the voluntary work of thousands of boys and the majority of the petitions were from town that would be hard to find on any map.

Exeter, N. H., May 27.—Captain Howard T. Torkelson of the Exeter track team has passed off his condition and will be eligible to compete in the dual track meet with Andover. It is carded for Friday afternoon.

NOLAN & CO. IN LEAD IN TITLE TRACK MEET

Schoolboy Star Athletes in Second Day of Games at Wood Island

The track events in the second annual District High School Meet were to be run off this afternoon at Wood Island Park. The field events were won by East Boston High, which ran up 42 1-3 points, with Hyde Park High second with 29 1-3 points.

East Boston High, which entered the meet a big favorite to win, should be able to cause through in the track events with enough points to clinch the championship. At that, Hyde Park High is living up to the advance dope and giving the Noddle Island boys a good run for premier honors.

The leading point-winners for East Boston High are Bill Nolan and Ralph Colson. Nolan's points will come in the 220-yard dash and running broad jump, while Colson should clean up in the "century" and hop-step-and-jump.

HYDE PARK'S BIG PAIR.

The intermediate division is a strong point on the East Boston team and will have a lot to do with the final score.

Gene Hussey in the standing broad jump and dashes, and Bleakney, in the shot-put, are the "class" of the Hyde Park team.

George McCloskey and Ray Duffy are the shining stars of Tom Scanlan's team at Brighton High. Duffy, with second place in the running broad jump and a place in the dashes, will help pile up the score for the school.

Brighton High and West Roxbury High entered the meet today tied for third place. Thad Keefe has a lot of good men in the track events and should be able to take third honors.

TRADE SCHOOL SHINES.

Boston Trade School is making for a better showing than was expected. It took the first two places in the intermediate high jump and scored 14½ points. It now remains to be seen how strong the school is in the track events.

As the district high schools have been holding meets for but two years, the records are not exceptionally good, which explains why so many new marks are being set up. Out of thirteen events ten new records were made.

WILLARD STILL 'POSING' OUT IN LOS ANGELES

Hon. Jess Hopes to Get Through Tomorrow, So He Can Hit Out for Toledo Camp

Los Angeles, May 27.—Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, accompanied by Charley Miller and Walter Hempel, his sparring partners, will leave for Toledo tomorrow at the latest, he hopes.

Ed Archer, Willard's manager, has left for the battleground to prepare for the arrival of the big fellow.

Willard's getaway is contingent upon completion of scenes in the motion pictures in which he is being featured.

Cloudy weather had interfered with the work but it was stated early today the final scenes will be ground out no later than tomorrow afternoon.

Willard is anxious for his Eastern and Middle West fight critics to give him the "once over." Dopesters who have pictured him as a "fat, old man" are in for a surprise," according to Jess' trainers.

As a matter of fact, the big fellow is now only about ten pounds over the mark at which he fought Jack Johnson and won the title. He claims he is down to 259 pounds and does not look any bigger.

Willard has done a lot of boxing and has reduced considerably in the last few weeks.

FIRST BASEMAN MUST STUDY ALL THROWS---FULLERTON

THIS is the second of a series of 100 articles by Hugh S. Fullerton, celebrated baseball expert, on "How to Play Baseball." In this lesson, Mr. Fullerton continues to play first base. These articles will be a feature of the American sport pages each day. Don't' miss them.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

The position of first baseman in taking balls thrown from the infield is extremely important. Experiments of various kinds have been made by great first basemen, such as Anson, Chase, Tenney and Comiskey, always with the same result.

The proper position is for the baseman to stand with his feet set slightly apart, a foot or less in front of the inside corner of the base, but not touching the bag at all.

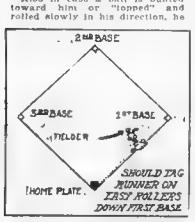
He should lean slightly forward on the balls of his feet, not enough to strain or tire the leg or back muscles, but in position to make a quick move in either direction, or a sudden leap forward or to his right for batted or bounding balls.

FAST FOOTWORK REQUIRED.

It is important that he should not stand upon the base itself, for the danger of catching the spikes in the canvas is large, and besides it is impossible to make a quick start if the feet are on the bag.

By adopting the position indicated the baseman supplies the other infielders with a fixed and prominent target at which to throw and he is in position to shift his feet quickly and stretch in either direction to receive thrown balls.

Also in case a ball is bunted toward him or "topped" and rolled slowly in his direction, he is set to sprint forward to field it. In taking throws the baseman shifts as best after judging the course of the ball, whether high, low or to either side.



THROW TO THE RIGHT.

It is best, of course, to have the ball thrown to his right and the majority of good infielders send their throws in that direction when possible. If the ball is thrown to the left the danger of the first baseman colliding with the runner is great and the chances of the ball escaping are increased.

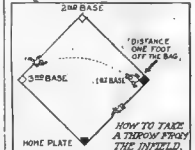
In fielding a low thrown ball place the foot lightly upon the inner corner of the bag and stretch forward to meet the ball. Some basemen remove the foot entirely from the base and touch it lightly after making the catch, but this is dangerous, because there is not time to look for the base and the instant lost in missing it with the foot and trying again is fatal if the runner is fast.

It is best, however, in fielding low throws to the left, when the ball is thrown close to the runner, to leave the bass entirely before it reaches the runner's path. By this the chances of a collision or a disastrous wild throw are minimized.

WHY MAL CHASE SHINES.

The advantage of a left-handed fielder in watching such throws is obvious, as man of the left-handed type snatch the ball from in front of runners with one hand in many cases.

On high-thrown balls use both hands whenever possible, leaping to make the catch rather than trying with one hand.



It is better to block down the ball with both hands and make sure than to risk a startling one-handed catch, with the odds in favor of allowing the runniter to get an extra base.

Baseball News and Notes

Ed Barrow's alleged claim that the Indians are stealing the Red Sox signs, makes poor reading for Boston fans. Just buckle up, Ed, and play your old game. Don't make excuses; Boston losers never do.

Pat Wilbert Robinson is having great success with his war pitchers Cadore and Grimes kept the Dodgers up there by holding the Cardinals to five hits and beating them, 6 to 2.

Those Reds also stayed in the running, mostly through a five-run surge in the seventh. They beat the Phils and Packard who won his first out by a 7-5 count. They hammered the southpaw for fourteen safeties.

* * *

That White Sox steam roller keeps right on rolling. It hopped a bit further ahead by wrecking the Senators 3-2. Lefty Williams won another for himself, although his mates were outhit.

* * *

Babe Ruston keeps right on enjoying the best season of his career. He mixed out the Pirates and, incidentally defeated Cooper, Reddy's great southpaw. The Rube is sure helping to turn the laugh on those who prated about the weak Giant pitching staff.

The Braves have arranged one more exhibition game. There will be a Gowdy Day at Buffalo June 5, with the Dodgers as opponents. Both teams will be en route for the West on that afternoon.

* * *

The Tigers were flopped off their winning streak by the Macks. Five runs in the eighth broke it up with the Jungletown athletes leading. H. Jennings' hormen, Roland, Cunningham and Kallio, gave ten free tickets and sandwiched in a costly wild pitch.

* * *

While Miller Huggins' infield was trying to go through with a double play in the tenth canto, which would have retired the side, George Sisler sneaked in from second with the run that busted up the fun between Bert Gallia and Jack Quinn. Thirteen hits only netted the Yankees one run.

TAD'S TIDBITS

BIG MOMENTS IN FIGHTS.

Do you think that there is a moment in every fight when the winner cinches the thing? Maybe it's a punch, maybe it's a look, but there's something to show us the winner at that moment.

Look at the Gunboat Smith Jack Dempsey fight. The first time they met was in a four-round affair in Frisco. Dempsey was new, Gunboat a seasoned veteran. Smith had knocked many a man cold with that old right of his.

He fooled around with Dempsey in the first round and, in the second when he had him sized up right, he let that old haymaker go and it caught Jack flush on the chin. The latter stopped dead in his tracks; he trembled, almost fell, then went on with the fight. Smith almost fainted. The shock of seeing Dempsey come on after that terrific sock, took all the heart out of him. They say that for the rest of the fight he was dazed.

Dempsey just beat him all over the ring. He won the fight when he kept his feet after the Smith offering.

Johnson and Jeffries offer another example. Jim Coffroth says that Johnson took the heart out of Jeff in the very first round. Jeff was a monster, as you know. He was as strong as a bull, too, and many thought him the strongest heavyweight that ever held the title. Jeff thought so himself.

He wasn't as strong as Johnson, however, for in the very first round of the Reno fight Johnson took Jeff's powerful left and put it up behind his back while breaking away. It was as easy as bending a twig for him. It must have scared Jeff silly to have a man do that to him. It had never been done before.

Jeff had no chance at all that day. He was fighting a man much stronger and much cleverer than himself. He felt it and showed it after the arm incident.

Johnny Kilbane showed us in the first round of the fight with Leonard that he was beaten. Johnny is probably the greatest feinter in the ring today. He has a double shift feint that usually makes a fellow open up.

He has worked it successfully dozens of times. He tried it on Leonard, but the latter was cooler than a bronze lion with a dog bark ing at it. He simply stood there waiting for Kilbane to hit. Johnny failed with his trick feint and two rounds later was stopped.

Ad Wolgast's first foul in the fight with Ritchie told the world that the tide had changed in the battle. They had fought too to too long. Someone had to weaken or show the white feather. Wolgast did it with his first foul. Referee Griffin warned him, but later on he did it again and Griffin stopped the fight and gave it to the game Ritchie.

I'll Say So.

Dear Tad:

That Salvation Army slogan, "A man may be down but he's never out," is a pip I think. Reminds me an awful lot of Fred McKay.

Yours,

IN SOFT McCLOSKEY.

Mr. Armstrong Speaks.

Bob Armstrong was around the other day punching the bag about fighters. "I never see anyone give Jim Corbett a tumble when they talk about hard hitters," said Bob. "People have an idea that he was just a boxer. Say, that man could hit! I'll say he could. I used to train him for fights and I want to say that I was never hit harder by anyone. You know, he knocked out, quite a few good ones, too. Sullivan, Mitchell, Choynski and McCoy were a pretty fair bunch to drop."

BOXING NEWS AND GOSSIP

Vic Segal, last Boston boxer who recently returned from France where he had whipped the Germans, was given a rousing reception when introduced at the Fenway A. A. He says he is prepared to meet all comers at 140 pounds.

* * *

The days of miracles has not passed. A working newspaperman was able to get a seat within four rows of the press table at the Fenway Club. Said press table apparently is reserved for members of the Hard Boiled League in good standing.

* * *

Spider Murphy, manager of Joe Fagan, is back in Boston. He says the Dorchester middleweight will remain in Milwaukee until after his bout with Jock Malone of St. Paul, which is booked for June 6.

* * *

Murphy, by the way, is eager to inform the world that Fagan had the better of K. O. Loughlin in their recent frolic, despite press reports and clippings to the contrary.

* * *

Joe Curry, New Haven 126-pound boxer, who handed Freddie Williams of Cambridge a drubbing at the Commercial A. C., is seeking bouts in Boston. He has proved it will take a mighty classy ringman to dispose of him.

Chick Hayes, formerly of the Mare-

A run of victories has not helped Johnny Wilson, Charlestown welterweight, to get matches with 160-pounders here, although he has offers to enter a ring with the Charlestown puncher.

* * *

Joe McCarthy, manager of Young Ahearn, will be unable to match Vargas battle Jack Britton, welterweight champion, at the Boston Braves' field. Friday night as he is going under the surgeon's knife today for a couple of days he will be confined to his bed, recuperating from a local hospital.

* * *

Jack Britton, so it is said, is going to give Dia Doilings, his former gold medal in appreciation of the way he handled the welterweight champion in all his fights. It is true, for we haven't had any hot weather yet.

* * *

Eddie Pitzsimmons, who left-handed Charley White out of a decision at the Armory A. A. a short while ago, has been matched with Jack Brasso of Haselton, Pa., to meet at Dayton, O. The date has not been announced.

MARS FAST WORKMAN

BRITT IS FAVORITE.

The speculative element has entered the affair, however, as a few fans who saw Mars at work assert that the wiry boy is capable of putting a flock of wallops behind his punches. Shaver (Chief) Wilson, the lightweight will be in the semi-final bout. He will be opposed by Young Reagan, a Woonsocket boy who has been showing plenty of class in hand Hurns a setback.

George Alger, the welterweight, made his ring debut with Terry Hooker at the Armory A. A. Wednesday night. Hooker is the two weeks ago. Both boxers had questionable decisions. Alger was declared a unanimous winner.

* * *

Friday night at the Armory A. A. the card will be completed and gave the boys a chance to engage in a real battle. Each boy is entitled him to pile up a few points.

Young Sacco of East Boston and Tommy Reagan of the same town will meet in a slow and uninteresting affair. If Reagan refused to do any more than he did with Freddie Madden of Lowell he stopped Dutch Reagan, a brother Tommy, in five frames, while Max Murphy of Chicopee knocked George Brooks of Cambridge in three sessions.

THIS is the anniversary of the death of Nicolo Paganini, the great Italian violinist. Paganini produced his marvelous results with a Guarnerius violin presented to him when he had pawned his own. He always used this instrument and bequeathed it to his native city, Genoa, where it still is.

The Love Gambler

A NEW SERIAL BY A FAMOUS WRITER

David DeLaine, War Hero, Is Left Fortune Provided He Marries a Certain Girl

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued

(Copyright 1919, Star Company)

HE stopped. This was not the language a hireling would use to his employer—a hireling of the type he was supposed to be.

"I mean," he stammered, "are you sure, sir, you would not rather wait till you get my references?"

"No. I can trust you." Then before David could guess his intention Leighton caught hold of the sleeve of the army coat and turned it quickly to the light. There was a tiny unbleached triangle where a wound stripe had been.

"Why did you take that off?" the older man asked abruptly.

"I did not care to excite comment by wearing it," was the low voiced reply. "I was only an ambulance driver, you see." And eagerly, "I am going to ask as a favor, sir, that neither you nor Miss Leighton tells anyone I was in the service. May I ask you to promise that?"

CHAPTER IX.

SAMUEL LEIGHTON regarded the young man curiously.

"That is an odd thing to ask, Smith," he commented. "You want your employers to promise that they will not mention to anyone the fact that you have been in the service. Are you ashamed of it?"

The blood rushed to David's face.

"No, sir, I am not," he declared. "I am also aware that my request sounds strange. If you think it was impertinent, I apologise. Yet I cannot withdraw it."

There was a questioning quality in Samuel Leighton's gaze. In the excitement of the moment David DeLaine had again spoken as man to man—not as an underling to his superior. Leighton's expression warned the young man that he was treading on thin ice. He [illegible] his eyes and spoke in a lower tone.

"My appeal may seem foolish to you, sir. But I have my own reasons for not wishing it to be known that I have been on the other side."

"You would prefer having people gaze at you and consider you a slacker?" his companion challenged.

"I know I am not. That is enough. It is nobody's business but mine—and the government's. And people ask ex-soldiers awkward questions about their health—and all," he added as an afterthought.

But it was that afterthought that saved the day for him. Samuel Leighton's face cleared.

"Oh, I understand now," he said. "You have the hitherto healthy young man's natural dread of being considered an invalid. If people know you have been overseas, they will inquire why you are back—and you will have to admit that you have been ill. Well, since you feel like that I don't blame you—and I will have to consent to make the promise you ask."

"And," eagerly, "you will ask Miss Leighton to do the same?"

"That is a matter for me to decide," was the cold reply, and David knew that he had once again overstepped the line of obsequious respect which custom and convention demanded of one in his position.

"I beg your pardon," he muttered.

This was the second time that he had apologized within the past three minutes. It was not like David De Laine to do this—yet since he had started out upon this adventure he must see it through. Just now he could not afford to disdain a chance to earn his living. Moreover, his sporting blood was roused.

He wished he had the nerve to inquire the Christian name of his young mistress. But, of course, he would learn it before long. Some one must use her name in his presence. He noticed tonight that her father had called her "Daughter," and that only.

He roused himself with a start from his musings, aware that Mr Leighton had not replied to his apology. He met the eyes of the older man fixed upon him. He did not flinch or glance away, and the two men stood regarding each other fixedly for a moment.

Café-Cawfee

COFFEE

Three soldiers crouched in the front line trench—cold, weary, hungry. Suddenly—they sniffed, smiled and said in unison—"Cafe," from the Poilu; "Cawfee," from the Tommy; and from the Yank—"Coffee!"

COFFEE is the fighting man's drink. It did its bit in the war right manfully. In the camp, on the march, at the front, in the hut and hospital, wherever men fought and bled and suffered and died,—there was coffee.

Ever and always the cry was—coffee! Because it gives cheer and comfort, and courage. It is soothing, quieting, sustaining. The tired man calls for it. Exhausted nature asks for it. After the lesson of this war,—who shall say that coffee is not healthful—and needful?

Be thankful for coffee—for the delight of it, the benefit of it, the real down-right goodness of it. There is nothing in the world you would miss one-half so much as coffee,—if you were suddenly deprived of it!

Indeed—coffee is one of the truest and "realest" of friends that Nature has given to men. Let us rejoice in it, and revel in it. Let us glory in the charm and flavor and piquancy of it. Let us toast our friends in it—"Here's to your health and happiness!"

STEEL COMMON WEAKENED EARLY

Motors and Rubbers Were Firmest Groups Under Selling Pressure

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were higher by noon in New York in the majority of instances, but there were enough to show declines to give the list some aspect of irregularity. There was hesitation for a while after the initial advance, but gains were the rule then and throughout the first hour. But in the second selling pressure had more effect. U. S. Steel weakened early, its opening figure being its highest for the morning. By noon it was off ⅜ at 107½, after selling as low as 107¼. The decline in this issue had an adverse influence upon the market. Bethlehem B and Republic eased off and Midvale lost all its gain, while Crucible held part of its advance. Most of the oils showed moderate gains at the end of the morning, but this could not be said of coppers. They and equipments followed steels. Rails held fairly firm. The strongest groups were motors, rubbers and alcohols. Trading was very active throughout the forenoon.

Largest gains at 12 o'clock included General Motors ⅜ at 204¾, after selling as high as 207; Studebaker 1¾ at 103¾, after selling at 102½; Industrial Alcohol 1¼ at 165¼, U. S. Rubber 1⅞ at 107¾, after selling at 109½; Goodrich 1⅝ at 77¼, after selling at 78; Southern Pacific 2⅛ at 112¼; Mexican Petroleum 2⅞ at 185⅞, after selling at 186⅝.

Transactions during the first hour totalled 500,000 shares.

BIG GAINS AT OPENING.

At the opening buying was frenzied for awhile, causing big gains for a number of issues and lifting the list to a higher price level. The market boiled while overnight orders were being executed. The public demand for stocks seemed unabated. Traders who have been expecting a real reaction for days are astounded at the scope and intensity of the mania for speculation which is actuating casual dabblers in the stock market. Around Wall Street and other financial districts it is claimed that bankers are regarding the situation with distrust and that big interests have been selling out. If the latter is true their offerings have been less than the public was willing to buy. The technical position of the market has been weakened to a considerable extent. But all this makes little difference at a time when Wall Street is invaded by the largest flock of lambs ever known.

SELLING PRESSURE INCREASED.

The bear crowd was more confident that a reaction cannot be long postponed, and selling pressure increased to a degree that stemmed the rising tide within a few minutes after the opening. Quite a number of leaders showed losses and others receded from their opening figures. Profit taking was general, and had more effect than during the last hour yesterday. At the start General Motors and U. S. Rubber sold at record highest prices, while Pierce Arrow and Railway Steel Spring did so later. Among issues to sell at their year's highest were Midvale, Crucible, Studebaker, Willys Overland, American Locomotive, Allis Chalmers, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atchison, Goodrich, Chino, Kennecott, Industrial Alcohol and California Packing. Early gains ranged from fractions to more than three points.

TRADING IN VICTORY NOTES.

Victory notes were admitted to trading on the Stock Exchange this morning, and during the first fifteen minutes a moderate amount of the first 4¾s sold at 99.90. The Liberty fourth 4¼s were traded in at 95.46, against 95.40 at the close yesterday.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, May 27.—The sub-treasury gained $522,000 from the banks on Monday, making the cash net gain since Friday of $415,000.

COPPER ISSUES ADVANCE IN BOSTON

Trading on the Local Exchange Is Broad and Active

There was strength to the local market all the morning, although a number of issues either receded a little or failed to participate in the advance. Coppers were a strong group and Mayflower-Old Colony was active. It sold at its year's highest, as did American Woolen preferred, Wolverine and East Butte.

Among mining shares to advance the most were Quincy, Ahmeek, Copper Range and Old Dominion. Metal market reports were favorable. It is said that the lifting of the embargo on copper imports by the French government has resulted already in orders from France.

Helvetia was in evidence and lower most of the time. United Shoe was firm, but did not change much in price. Booth Fisheries declined more than a point. American Bosch Magneto advanced more than three points to a highest record price for this market. Packing house issues ruled a little lower. Trading was broad and active on the Boston Stock Exchange.

BRITISH MAY RAISE SOLE LEATHER EMBARGO

In the leather trade there is general expectation that the British government will lift its embargo on sole leather and shoes before July 1, and this in addition to releasing large stocks bought and held here for British interests will cause a further advance in prices.

Within a week or ten days several varieties of the better grade sole leather have gone up approximately 2 cents a pound and are selling above the 1918 peak. After the British embargo on upper leather was removed there was a decided advance in prices of kid and calfskins. Advances, in fact, have been from 3 to 5 cents within a little more than a week.

MAY SOON LIFT BAN ON GOLD EXPORTATION

There has been a government ban on the exportation of gold since September 10, 1917, and the Federal Reserve Board has exercised control over this metal ever since. Now it is believed that the ban is about to be lifted, since it has no further importance as a war measure and the country gold reserves total more than $2,500,000,000.

If restrictions upon gold exports are removed bankers are of the opinion that with foreign exchange in its present position the United States is not likely to lose much of its yellow metal.

BREAK IN COTTON PRICES AT MARKET OPENING

New York, May 27.—Profit taking was extensive when the cotton market opened, and prices declined 20 to 42 points, although rains continued throughout the belt. The break was about $4 a bale from yesterday's closing, and nearly $6 a bale from yesterday's highest price level. Sentiment was reactionary. Opening prices were: July, 32.40; September, 31.59; October, 31.50; December, 31.10; January, 30.93; March, 30.80.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, May 27.—Corn opened ¼ to 1¼c. higher. Oats were ⅛c. lower to 1½c. higher. Provisions opened lower. Opening prices were: Corn, May 1.81 to 1.81¼; July, 1.65¾ to 1.66; September, 1.58¾ to 1.58½. Oats, July, 67⅝; September, 64¼ to 64⅛. Pork, July, 48.80. Lard, July, 31.10.

Corporation Reports

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company reports for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1919, earnings of $15,059,007 available for dividends, equal to $10.06 a share on preferred and common stock outstanding. In the previous year the company earned $10.29 a share.

The Ohio Cities Gas Company reports for the year ended March 31, 1919, surplus after charges, taxes and depreciations of $9,586,567, against $10,326,093 in 1918.

ANGLO AMERICAN OIL

Circumstances surrounding this company's affairs have been of such an unusual character as to direct the interest of close analysis of oil securities.

We have prepared a special article dealing with the situation which we believe would be of more than passing interest to you.

REPORT AN INCREASE IN STEEL BUYING

According to trade reports there is increased demand for steel products and mills of the U. S. Steel Corporation are operating at about 63 per cent. of capacity, and an increase is looked for in its June report as to unfilled tonnage.

According to one manufacturer, mills are only working at present on an average basis of about one-half of capacity, but he predicts that the latter will be taxed to fill orders by the latter part of August.

Wool Consumption Increasing

Compared with March consumption of wool by American manufacturers increased 11,000,000 pounds in April to a total of 45,000,000, grease equivalent.

LONGFORD

The stock of this Company has been listed on the Boston Curb Exchange, where a public market is made upon its shares.

It Is a New England Corporation managed and controlled by New England business men of character and ability. The Company has no Treasury Stock to sell, and there are no pools operating in it. The market is made on the basis of supply and demand.

Among its present stockholders are some of the leading men of New England, who hold it for permanent ownership.

There are one million shares of the par value of One Dollar each, which are non-assessable.

The Manufacturing Plant and Offices of the Company at 80 Charles River Road, Cambridge, Mass., are always open to inspection during regular business hours.

The business of the Longford Company of America is conducted upon a cash basis. This company desires the confidence of the people of New England, who buy and sell stock in the market, in order that the Longford securities may have a broad and active market, and become as well and favorably known as the

COMDELCAR

which it manufactures, and which are in use from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

We have an official booklet setting forth its business plans, which will be mailed upon request to anyone interested.

This announcement is made because important plans, nearly completed by the Company, should greatly enhance the value of its shares in the very near future, and we desire to call public attention to it while the present low market price prevails.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN MAY 27, 1919. BOSTON.

An Appeal to the Senate to Preserve Sovereign Independence of America

Senators of the United States, in the orderly processes of our representative institutions of free government, the American people have entrusted to you the preservation of that national independence and of those Constitutional rights and liberties which our fathers won for us with arms in their manly hands, and which their sons, after them, have hitherto maintained by wisdom in council and hardihood in war.

Not in the one hundred and thirty years which have elapsed, Senators, since the splendid edifice of our independence and our liberties was completed by the construction of the Constitutional Union, has a body of representatives of the American people been confronted with a proposal so dangerous to our national life, so fatal to our national independence, so abhorrent to our national traditions and our national spirit, as the proposal with which you must soon deal—the proposal, Senators, that this country of ours shall surrender its sovereign freedom of domestic and foreign policy and conduct to the dictation of a heterogeneous oligarchy—of another Council of Ten—worse, indeed, than that tyrannical institution in that the Venetian oligarchs could at least speak a common language and had a common interest in upholding against all comers the sovereignty of their State.

But we, Senators, we are to be placed at the disposal of an alien assembly, to whose ears our very language must be interpreted, to whom our increase and our prosperity are objects not of solicitude, but of envy and jealousy, and whose intrigues and secret aims will infallibly be directed to the diminution of our commerce and of our riches and power.

Senators, if we abide in the wisdom of our fathers; if we maintain the polity under which our country has grown so prosperous and so powerful; if we jealously guard our individual sovereignty; if we rely manfully upon our own good sense; upon our own right-dealing, upon our own strength, upon our own courage, we need fear nothing.

There will always be American men eager and able to guard American shores, to protect American rights, to win American wars, to enforce respect for American sovereignty.

In our own just quarrels, in our own just defence, who among you, Senators, doubts that we can face the world, if needs be, in arms and break in pieces and tread under foot any alliance that comes with hostile banners to assail the Republic?

And what else does either self-interest or public duty or international morality demand of us, save that we should act uprightly with all the world and be ready always to compel from others the same justice and fair play which we extend, without compulsion, to them?

Was there ever heard before in the civilized world the preposterous theory that one people should set aside all their national interests, disregard all their domestic welfare, surrender their own sovereignty, and give their wealth, their lives and their labor to a species of bootless and lunatic knight-errantry—to become the Don Quixote of the nations?

For, make no mistake, Senators, this is exactly the role which the unscrupulous and cunning diplomats of Europe have prepared for us, and which they propose to the vanity and the credulity of our inexperienced and easily deceived diplomacy in the guise of a League of Nations.

Senators, you know history. Is there one among you who has not been impressed by the exact parelleism between the Congress of Vienna, in the second decade of the Nineteenth Century, and this Congress of Paris, in this second decade of the Twentieth Century?

Except that in 1919 Germany is playing at Paris the role of defeat and dismemberment that France was playing at Vienna in 1814, the record of the proceedings at Paris could be used as a transcript of the proceedings at Vienna, almost word for word.

The Congress of Vienna also formulated a League of Nations, upon the insistence of Alexander, an idealist of the extreme type. There was also a Big Four, and the diplomats of the other three Powers permitted Alexander to occupy his time with his scheme of a League of Nations, while they industriously divided up the material spoils. And while forming that League of Nations, three of the Powers also formed a secret alliance—a league inside of a league.

The League of Nations also undertook to put down internal revolutions—the Bolsheviki of that day being in power in the kingdom of Naples, instead of in Russia. The League also set up "mandatories," resolved upon peace terms which would insure the military and commercial depression of France for many years—"clipped the claws and drew the teeth of the wild beast," as one of the diplomats of 1817 expressed it—and imposed reparations and indemnities which were calculated to keep France bankrupt and ruinously taxed for half a century.

You will perceive, Senators, the likeness of the proceedings at Vienna to those at Paris.

And what happened after this wonderful Congress had formulated its League of Nations and instituted perpetual peace?

Why, the wonderful Council of the League of Nations met three times—in 1818, in 1821 and in 1822—and the League went out of existence in 1823, when the Executive Council issued a "mandate" to France to attack the revolutionists, who had overthrown the Spanish monarchy and set up a government of their own.

Even to the language and the terms employed, and in all its proposed powers and objects, the League of Nations to which we are now invited to surrender American sovereignty is an exact imitation of the League of Nations set up at Vienna.

That League lasted less than seven years, accomplished nothing of value and died amid general ridicule. And what less disastrous fate is likely to occur to the imitation than to the original League?

Now, Senators, you will recollect another parallelism. Our own country was dragged into the general European war which was ended at Vienna just as it was dragged into this European war—by aggression upon our shipping. Great Britain and her allies in those times loudly proclaimed that they were waging war for the freedom of humanity from autocracy and militarism—then located in France—and the English insisted upon intercepting our commerce with France and with neutrals; and as Americans in those days were always ready to maintain American rights to the freedom of the seas against any aggressor—England or any other nation—the United States went to war against Great Britain. In that war our little navy was victorious and our army, under Jackson, won the last famous fight at New Orleans.

But what was our Government's procedure then? Did the President subsequently attend the Congress at Vienna? Did our Government rush to join the League of Nations? Did our envoys join in re-mapping Europe?

Not so, Senators, not so. Our Government waged its own war with Great Britain.

It associated itself with no other Power.

It sedulously avoided taking any part in the disputes or the negotiations of the European Powers.

It maintained the policy of Washington.

And it not only came out of the war with increased prestige, and with the freedom of the seas and neutral rights established, but it also kept our country scot-free from any entanglement in the wars which again broke out in Europe—just as they will again break out after this present peace is put through.

Senators, there is no way to judge of the future but by the experiences of the past.

And here in the past we have, within the boyhood of some of our own fathers, an exact likeness of the events that are now occurring.

And it is only the part of common sense to predict that the League of Nations now proposed will end in the same failure that resulted to the League formed then; that the peace terms formulated at Paris upon the model of those formulated at Vienna will be followed by the same wars that followed the elder treaty; and that our wisest course is to follow the policy our Government so successfully and beneficially followed then—THE POLICY OF ATTENDING TO OUR OWN BUSINESS AND OF LETTING EUROPE ATTEND TO ITS OWN BUSINESS.

For what would be the use of writing history and preserving the records of other times if we have nothing to learn from the successes and failures of the past?

Does the nature of governments or of individuals radically change within a single lifetime? And are there not still living men and women who were alive in the year 1819, when the first Congress of the first League of Nations was in session, and sending out its decrees and mandates?

No, Senators, no; there has been no change in the nature of men, no change in the ambitions and purposes of governments and of ruling castes, born and nurtured in intrigue, war, victory and spoils.

The listening ear can hear even now the mustering of the armies that are again to contend for the territories and dominions that are being parcelled out among the victors at Paris.

And are we to be chained to the wheels of Europe's war chariots again, whether or not we have any national interest in their quarrels or their divisions of loot?

Are our young men to be called again across the seas, called again to fight on alien soil at the order of aliens, usurping and administering that sovereignty over the American people which our great charter of Government expressly declares to be lodged only in the American people themselves?

Senators, do not believe for a moment that the American people either desire to have their sovereignty thus bartered away or that they will long submit to let such a bargain stand, if you should be untrue enough to consent to such a barter—and such a betrayal.

Both by implication and by plain words the Constitution prohibits you from conveying to any other body either that portion of sovereign powers delegated to you by our great charter or that finality of sovereign power which is expressly reserved "to the States, respectively, OR TO THE PEOPLE."

You cannot LAWFULLY grant to any aliens one jot or tittle of the sovereignty of the American people.

And, Senators, if there should be among you enough men willing to make such an unlawful grant, we say to them plainly that the American people will find a lawful way to undo their unlawful work and to brand them with the condemnation of an indignant nation. Of that, Senators, you can be well assured.

Stars and Stripes

A man who has been around "quite a bit" says he has tried to find somebody who can explain the meaning of all the different kinds of insignia worn by the soldiers, but his effort, according to his own admission, has been a gloomy failure.

Folks are warned to "buy coal now." Why, most of us haven't yet put in our ice order.

It is not true that the Germans postponed signing the peace treaty in order to delay demobilization in America so that anti-prohibitionists would get peevish about war.

Count Brockdorff-Rantzau is more determined than ever not to sign the treaty of peace, but it is probable that he will be careful to keep his fountain pen full of ink, just the same.

It is possible to be a real society woman without having one's picture taken with a dog.

And these days most of us would rather be a baseball umpire than a German peace delegate.

Anyhow, after July 1 we may all "drink in the beauties of nature."

Ridiculing another's garden doesn't till your own.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

High Pressure System

Editor Boston American:

While it would require considerable courage to say one word that would impede the city in getting what it has so long been striving for, its "High Pressure System," it would seem that in the many years of consideration a better system would have been devised than is now contemplated. Independent of the opinions which might differ as to the relative merits of pure fresh water over salt and sewer contaminated water, in its effect upon pumps, pipes, public health and salvage, one purely mechanical fact should not be overlooked and possibly has not. A gallon of water weighs nearly eight and one-half pounds, and therefore 13,000 gallons will weigh fifty tons, and 1,000 gallons seventy-five tons. For the city to elevate this weight from one to eleven feet unnecessarily, as it will have to if the system is called into service any time within twenty-two hours of the day, appears to me as absurd as it would be to build a new house and pipe it with leaky fixtures, possibly going one step further in taking the water supply from the sewerage system. With a practically limitless supply of water naturally running at highest level almost into the centre of the city, as it does in the Charles River Basin, it would seem that a supply from tide water would not be thought of for a moment. G. H. L.

Judged by the Output

A Senator recently declared that stump speechmaking was the hardest and most embarrassing of all political work, mainly because of the disconcerting and often brutally rude interruptions and questions met with. As an example, he mentioned the case of a speaker who, toward the end of an exceptionally lengthy speech, made use of the quotation, "A man is known by his works," and received from some one in the audience the rejoinder, "Then yours must be gasworks!"

Clinging to Life
Doughnuts and Discontent
White Lady, Two Japanese

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

General Cornelius Vanderbilt, appealing to rich men to help in the Salvation Army fund campaign, says "the Salvation Army is truly progressive in its character, and at the same time tends to allay social discontent."

The Salvation Army, useful and benevolent, takes care of sores on the social body, after they have broken out.

It does not deal with the things that cause the sores. History will show General Vanderbilt that you cannot abolish "social discontent" with any number of doughnuts. It is not the man in the gutter that causes revolution, but the man who pities the man in the gutter.

He changes government not because he is down, not because he needs a doughnut, but because he sympathizes with men that are down, and means to help them. The ragamuffins, the "down and out" of our modern slang, do not start revolutions, or give expression to "social discontent"; that comes from minds strong and successful. Look out for them.

A lady artist, painter and sculptor, is getting a divorce from one Japanese gentleman and meanwhile living with another.

She says, excusing the second Japanese gentleman taken on without divorce formality:

"When one dares be true to self, what a wonderful vista opens up—a world where everything abides by a law born from itself, all fitting into a beautiful, mosaic court of the universe."

That is undoubtedly true. But, when a white woman is true to herself she doesn't live with Japanese gentlemen at all, not one, nor a dozen of them. And if she does, the vista that opens up eventually, is a vista of the gutter, or hours of brutal misery, spent in punishment for self respect betrayed.

Even the Englishman that most admired the Japanese, and showed most attention to Japanese women, was compelled to say that the half Japanese, half white child was inevitably a failure.

The white woman that uses her strength to give birth to mongrels "opens up a vista" that she can find well described in Dante's "Inferno."

Fifteen thousand killed by a volcano in Java. Did you read that, and pass on as though you had read of ants destroyed by the gardener's watering pot?

Java is the top, the backbone of a mountain ridge risen out of the Indian Ocean, which has covered the rest of a great mountain range. The thousand different islands, with Java the largest, that make up the Malay archipelago, are a formidable array of volcanic peaks, the majority dead or supposed to be dead.

Any one may come to life suddenly. Fourteen of them are active now.

The one called Mount Kalut has just grumbled in its sleep and killed fifteen thousand of the human ants living near it.

On the sides of these volcanoes and in the flat lands about thirty million human beings live, knowing that the ground may blow up at any moment, bringing death to the "homes" that have bamboo fences fifty or sixty feet high around them to keep out men and wild beasts, but not high enough to keep out hot lava from the earth's interior.

It is hard to destroy or discourage life in a community. Volcanoes cannot frighten it away. It is hard to destroy life in the individual body to which life clings so desperately.

You read that Frank McCusker, a postoffice flying man, jumped from his machine on fire two hundred feet in the air. The fall broke his neck, fractured his skull. But he was still living when they picked him up. At the same time "Daredevil" Schreyer was entertaining a Salvation Army crowd with his "leap of death." He dived eighty feet through the air, missed the water, struck the concrete side of the tank. He was broken to pieces, but alive when he got to the hospital. Life clings desperately to the individual body in which it is born.

After an Indian massacre they picked up the bodies of Indian women frozen stiff, so that they could be lifted like logs. They found under the mothers' clothes, pressed against the frozen breasts, tiny Indian babies, and these were still alive, clinging to their dead mothers, at a temperature fifteen degrees below zero.

You read of horrible tortures inflicted upon human beings by political or religious villainy, torture repeated day after day, unbelievable, yet the tortured bodies lived on to show the scars.

The wisdom that put us here must have had some important plan in mind to make us cling to this whirling ball so desperately.

We trace slow but sure progress of civilization in Mexico. At Morelia the Mayor has pasted up an order telling that all male residents and visitors while in town must wear trousers. Cotton underwear will not be accepted as a substitute.
